

De Gaulle Makes Plea, Rioting Continues

Paris Street Littered

By ALLAN A. PRIAULX
PARIS (UPI) — Riot police today crushed in streets from Paris to the Riviera the first reply of Frenchmen to President Charles De Gaulle's demand they choose between him and civil war.

Eleven hours of rioting by students, workers, anti-Gaullist toughs and farmers ended in Paris' Latin Quarter when blackcoated police using clubs, tear gas and bulldozers broke through the last barricade and routed the last cobbleshot warriors.

Perhaps 100,000 or more Frenchmen and women had fought police, demonstrated or rallied in a score of cities and towns after the 77-year-old president proclaimed Friday that a June referendum will decide the issue.

The night of warfare killed a police inspector and wounded 250 persons in Lyons, injured hundreds elsewhere, left the Paris Bourse stock market partly burned and looted and two capital police stations ravaged by De Gaulle's foes.

De Gaulle Speaks to Nation
In a seven-minute radio-television address to a country writhing under a 10-day, 10-million-man general strike triggered by campus rebellion, the last titan of Europe's wartime leaders once more offered himself as France's savior.

Unless the current national crisis is solved, he said, "We are to roll through civil war into adventures and the most hateful, most ruinous usurpations."

He indicated defeat in the June vote—anything less than a massive "oui"—would bring his prompt resignation.

Minority Answers
Immediately, throughout France, a violent minority answered.
In Paris, thousands marched through garbage-littered boulevards, burned automobiles, waved red banners, chanted "Goodbye De Gaulle Goodbye," sacked and set fire to the stockmarket, smashed windows in the senate, raised 15-foot-high trash barricades, besieged one main police headquarters and invaded two smaller posts, hurled molotov cocktails and formed bucket brigades to pass cobbleshot stones to strongarmed young men bombarding the police.

The police won. It was no famous victory.

In Lyons, a fruit truck driven by men waving a red banner knocked down and broke the head of police inspector Rene LaCrotte, 52, who died—the first reported fatality of what is known here as the French Revolution of 1968.

In order and in violence the foes of the general showed themselves in such other spots as Cherbourg, Marseille, Toulon, Le Puy, Nantes, Bordeaux, Rennes, Agen, Toulouse, Limoges, Le Mans, Clermont-Ferrand, Grenoble and Auch.

Hope For Bandwagon
The political opponents he has frustrated for a decade leaped aboard what they clearly hoped would be a bandwagon for De Gaulle's political doom.

A spokesman for the Catholic Unions supporting the strike crippling transportation, communication, industry and business said De Gaulle's speech only "confirms the need for a broader strike." Communists demanded De Gaulle get out. Extreme rightwing groups agreed, saying the president serves the Communists.

The Socialist party said De Gaulle is confused and his words mean "nothing." Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who ended France's Vietnam War, said no referendum is needed—"The people already had said no."

DEATH CAR—Ulster County's 16th traffic fatality of the year took place last night when this car was involved in a crackup in Eddyville. An 18-year-old Kingston youth was killed. (Freeman photo by Gilbert Gray)

City Youth Is Killed, County's 16th Fatal

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

The 16th traffic fatality recorded on Ulster County Highways occurred at 10:45 p. m. last night when an 18-year-old Kingston youth died as a result of injuries sustained in an Eddyville automobile accident.

The mishap was only one of a rash of accidents in the area last night and early this morning.

Michael Christopher of 183 Millers Lane was declared dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital after he had been rushed there by Doctors Ambulance.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department reported that Christopher was a passenger in a vehicle driven by John Dugan Jr., 18, of Madison Avenue, Kingston.

Dugan was treated at Kingston Hospital and released.

Another passenger in the Dugan car remains in critical condition at the hospital.

Sheriff's deputies assert that Dugan was traveling south on Mountain Road and Route 213 in Eddyville when he swerved to avoid hitting an oncoming vehicle. He skidded in the gravel near A and G Auto Sales and smashed into a crane owned by the firm.

The patient listed in critical condition is Donald DeWitt, 32, of Poughkeepsie.

Issued Summons
Dugan was issued a summons for operating an unregistered vehicle.

A 1 a. m. auto accident in Rosendale sent a New Paltz youth to Kingston Hospital where he was treated and released.

The sheriff's Department reported that John S. Smith, 18, of 91 Main Street, Rosendale, was driving south on DeWitt Lake Road, near the intersection of Cutler Road, when he became blinded by the lights of an oncoming vehicle.

Reportedly, Smith lost control of his car, drove through a picket fence on the property of Beatrice McCormack of Box 26, Eddyville, and eventually came to rest.

Injured was a passenger in the Smith car, Robert Fedorenko, 17, of Gardner Park Apartment Homes, New Paltz. Smith was given a summons for failure to keep to the right and driving at a speed not considered reasonable or prudent.

Another auto accident in the early morning hours involved a Lake Katrine woman and a reported stolen car from Binghamton.

owner, Samuel E. Bryant of 197 Clinton Street, Binghamton.

According to police reports, Miss Crawford had been traveling south on Albany Avenue in the vicinity of Spiegel Brothers Paper Co. when she veered across the northbound lane, went into the parking lot, and slammed into a meter station before coming to rest at the building.

No arrest has been made and an investigation is still pending.

Twenty-year-old Patricia Norris of Savannah, Ga. is in satisfactory condition today following an accident in which she leaped out of the rear door of a moving vehicle. She is in Kingston Hospital suffering from lacerations of the scalp.

Ellenville State Police report that Miss Norris was a passenger in a car driven by Mable L. Viscount, 34, of High Falls. The car was traveling at about 25 miles an hour east on Kripplush Road, Town of Marbletown, when Miss Norris leaped out of the right rear door.

She landed on the south shoulder of the highway.

No charges were made. The incident occurred at about 12:15 p. m.

Two Women Hurt

Two Eddyville women were injured yesterday afternoon when the taxi in which they were riding as passengers was hit by a station wagon at the corner of Fair Street and Maiden Lane at about 3:15.

Rosemary Johnson of Box 67, Eddyville, was taken to Benedictine Hospital where she was treated for injuries to the left hip and leg and Florence Brighlin, of the same address, was hospitalized for bruises of the right leg and neck.

The taxi in which they were riding was driven by Earl Finch of Box 224, Kingston, RD 4.

Driver of the station wagon was Ottavio Manco of Plains Road, Walden.

According to a report issued by the city police, the taxi was proceeding north on Fair Street in the right lane when the station wagon, which was traveling on Maiden Lane, struck it in the left rear door.

The police report states further that Manco admitted to disregarding a stop sign on Maiden Lane and Fair Street.

The accident was investigated by Patrolmen E. R. Mulford and Barry Dunn.

City police also report the issuance of 15 summonses yesterday for disregard of stop signs and flashing red lights.

Elsewhere, Bryant Miller, 22, of Newburgh, was killed early today in a collision between two cars at the intersection of Broadway and Liberty Street, when the taxi in which they were riding as passengers was hit by a station wagon at the

Legislature Set to Adjourn

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The 1968 legislature slogged toward adjournment today after the Senate capped a bitter debate by voting in the early morning hours to launch a decentralization plan for the New York City school system.

New York City problems dominated the closing hours of the session that opened last Jan. 3 amid overriding concern that state taxes would have to be greatly increased to finance a $5.5-billion state budget.

But the state fiscal problem was resolved early this month, and attention focused on the giant city's effort to appease racial and ethnic minorities clamoring for a more direct voice in administering the school system.

Senators and assemblymen representing upstate districts were compelled also to address themselves to Mayor John V. Lindsay's appeal for more taxing powers to support a city budget expected to top $6 billion. After several days of on-again, off-again maneuvering, the Senate's Republican leadership brought its compromise school bill to a vote early this morning. It was approved, 35-20, and forwarded to the Assembly for concurrence.

Both houses broke off their prolonged meetings around 2 a. m., planning to return in mid-morning today to resume their quest for final adjournment of the annual legislative session.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments in the adjournment drive:
The legislature voted overwhelmingly for Gov. Rockefeller's plan to initiate a program of state aid for the private colleges and universities of New York State. The plan was to provide about $30 million a year to institutions other than those with church connections.

A bi-partisan plan advanced by Rockefeller and supported by legislative leaders of both parties to provide $250 million in special aid to the state's cities during the next three years also swept to approval.

The state's private, non-sectarian colleges will receive state financial aid upwards of $30 million in the next few years. See story on Page 16.

—Both houses also endorsed a proposal to increase the governor's annual salary from $50,000 to $85,000 and the lieutenant governor's pay from $30,000 to $45,000, effective after the next gubernatorial election.

Today's agenda included the $497-million supplemental budget bill, a catch-all of spending items not included in the main budget, plus Lindsay requests for measures that would produce $82.7 million in additional revenue for New York City coffers. Rockefeller, who had been away most of the week campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination, made a dramatic return to the Capitol Friday night to lend his presence to the adjournment drive. He flew in from South Carolina and surprised assemblymen by appearing on the rostrum to bid a sentimental farewell to Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, the legislature's foremost Democrat.

Travia has been nominated by President Johnson for a federal judgeship and is expected to surrender his coveted leadership post sometime during the summer.

The decentralization bill would enlarge New York City's central board of education and direct the unit to prepare a plan designed to give the community a greater degree of direct participation in administering the school system.

Its approval was threatened for a time by opposition from the city teachers' union, which protested that teacher job-tenure rights would be threatened. Democratic legislators sided with the union but withdrew that objection when the union decided that its fears were unfounded.

In the showdown debate, however, Democrats protested that the measure did not go far enough. Many demanded offering of both legs and lacerations right replacement of the pres-ent board and voted against the bill when Senate GOP leaders rebuffed these demands.

Predicting New Tactics By U.S. in Peace Talks

PARIS (UPI)—The United States is preparing "new ideas" to present Hanoi in a major effort to get the stalled Paris Vietnam talks moving, U.S. officials said today.

They declined to indicate what these might be.

Though Communist gunners downed four U.S. aircraft today in South Vietnam, North Vietnamese missilemen failed at hitting a B52 bomber with a guided missile. See story on Page 16.

But signs were that when the talks resume Monday after a four-day recess, U.S. Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman will make a strong pitch for an end to semipublic speeches in which each side lambasted the other.

Instead, Harriman was expected to strongly press Hanoi's

Xuan Thuy to get down to secret talks at which real negotiations might be possible.

The United States was known to believe secret negotiations offer the only real hope of breaking the deadlock.

However, U.S. officials were far from hopeful Thuy would agree to such a switch.

U.S. officials were coming increasingly to the conclusion that Hanoi sent its delegation to Paris with only one idea—to get bombing of the north ended.

Both sides continued to use the four-day recess to launch new broadsides at each other.

Hanoi's chief spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, speaking at a news conference Friday at the French government's left bank press center, accused the United States of being "obstinate and perfidious."

U.S. delegation spokesman William J. Jordan retorted a half hour later at the U.S. embassy press center that the Communists should "stop throwing adjectives about and get down to the serious business of negotiating peace."

Le sharply rejected as "absurd" the recent call by President Johnson for mutual scaling down of the level of fighting in Vietnam. He said—as he has almost daily since the talks began—that nothing short of complete, unconditional and immediate halting of bombing and "all other acts of war" against the north would satisfy Hanoi and enable peace negotiations to begin.

Jordan rejected Le's charge that the U.S. delegation is "obstinate and perfidious."

"We do not think we are being obstinate," he said, "and we know we are not perfidious."

Despite this atmosphere of mutual acrimony, both sides insisted they have no thought of breaking off the talks and warned that if they do collapse, the blame will be entirely on the other side.

Jordan said, "if talks fail, the world can judge whose responsibility it was. We hope they won't fail."

Le said "the United States will bear the entire responsibility."

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Robson Sampaio de Almeida of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, found the strength of his faith through a tragic accident that handicapped him for life. While attending college in Houston, Tex., he worked part time in a paper plant and a huge roll of paper fell on him, leaving him paralyzed from the waist down.

A devout Baptist, he was determined to make a purposeful life for himself and work with the disabled and handicapped. With the insurance money he received he returned to Brazil and in the town of Meir outside of Rio established a rehabilitation center for all types of handicaps—polio, cerebral palsy, paraplegics, mentally retarded and alcoholics.

The need was great and his money soon ran out, so to sustain the operation he started an organization called the "Optimists' Club," whose 8,000 members donate a small sum each month.

He receives no government help, although some doctors and technicians do contribute their time. Among his many problems is his recent eviction from one of his two buildings for nonpayment of rent. His facilities are substandard and his operation is still on a shoestring, but to the 35 adult and 31 juvenile in-patients and the 150 out-patients, his faith is a beacon of light in the darkness of indifference.

Sharing Congregations Schedule Fellowship

The congregations of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross and St. Paul's Baptist Church, which share the same building of worship on Pine Grove Avenue, are sponsoring a Fellowship Day program Monday, on the grounds of the Convent of St. Anne, 287 Broadway.

Tea will be served in the back garden from 3 to 6 p. m. by the woman of the two churches. A musical program will be given by Mrs. Mary Crispell and Miss V.D. Smith, vocalists, a choral group from the John A. Coleman School under the direction of Mary Dolan, and Duane Burgess, pianist. The public may attend.

The Rev. Oscar Palmer is pastor of St. Paul's Church and the Rev. David L. Bronson is rector of the Church of the Holy Cross.

Salvation Army Activity Stressed in Observance

The scope of activity of the Salvation Army was emphasized this week, National Salvation Army Week, by Lieutenant James Shotzberger, leader of the Kingston Corps.

One of the Salvation Army's little-known services is its Missions Bureau, which locates more than 1,600 persons throughout the country during the year, said the local lieutenant. Whereabouts of the local persons are revealed only with their consent.

Last year nearly 6,000 inmates of correctional institutions were enrolled in the Salvation Army's bible study groups, while its employment service has found jobs for over 140,000 persons. The Army operates 15 Evangeline Residences which provide a home-like atmosphere at modest cost for young business women.

The League of Mercy visits more than 3,250,000 individuals annually in more than 11,000 hospitals and other institutions, said Shotzberger, while stringing hands are bringing the Christian message to swinging youngsters in hippie coffee houses and on popular beaches.

Abroad, the Salvation Army cares for victims of leprosy at six centers in Asia, Africa, and South America.

Children included in the group were Alan and Brouck Boyd, David and Peter Chase, Elizabeth Eastman, Janet and Philip Edgar, Nancy and John Johnson, Laurie and David McMichael, Robin Natoli, Renee Rao, Nadia and Lali Runke and Tammy and Thomas Ticknor.

The Unitarian Fellowship meets Sunday 10:30 a. m. at the Pickett House, Lohmaier Lane and Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine.

Our New Social Studies Curriculum will be explained at the Sunday program of the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Viola Opdahl, a Kingston City Schools faculty member who has been working for the past year on a film for the state education department concerning the pilot project. She will examine the manner in which the method of inductive learning is applied to the teaching of concepts such as race relations, peace, patriotism and democratic process.

Last Sunday parents of 17 children participated in a service of dedication presided over by the Rev. Guy Meyer of the Unitarian Universalist Church, Newburgh.

Mission Guest Will Address AME Society

The Missionaries of Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church, 28 Franklin Street, will hold the annual Missionary service Sunday 3:30 p. m.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Grant H. Williams, chairman of St. Christopher's School, Dobbs Ferry. A minister of the Hudson River Presbytery, the Rev. Mr. Williams is a graduate of Bloomfield College, Bloomfield N. J.; Lincoln University, Theological Seminary and New York Theological Seminary.

He has been chaplain at the school since 1964. His topic will be the work at the school. A slide presentation will illustrate his talk.

The public may attend.

Teen Day Set At St. Peter's

Teen Day is May 26 at St. Peter's School Hall and a variety of events are planned for the 150 teenagers expected to take part.

Theme for the program 2 to 9 p. m. is Teen Insight. A talk, a movie, a folk Mass, discussion groups and a supper-dance will be features.

A group of seminarians from Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary will lead the folk Mass and contribute to the entertainment. Tickets are available from St. Peter's Confraternity of Christian Doctrine students of CYO Teen Club members. Mrs. Robert Scherer may be contacted for further information and reservations. High school students from all other parishes in Ulster County have been invited to take part and bring their guests.

The next regular meeting of the teen club will be held June 2 at 7:30 p. m. in the school hall. All teenagers may attend.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Robson Sampaio de Almeida of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, found the strength of his faith through a tragic accident that handicapped him for life. While attending college in Houston, Tex., he worked part time in a paper plant and a huge roll of paper fell on him, leaving him paralyzed from the waist down.

A devout Baptist, he was determined to make a purposeful life for himself and work with the disabled and handicapped. With the insurance money he received he returned to Brazil and in the town of Meier outside of Rio established a rehabilitation center for all types of handicaps—polio, cerebral palsy, paraplegics, mentally retarded and alcoholics.

The need was great and his money soon ran out, so to sustain the operation he started an organization called the "Optimists' Club," whose 8,000 members donate a small sum each month.

He receives no government help, although some doctors and technicians do contribute their time. Among his many problems is his recent eviction from one of his two buildings for nonpayment of rent. His facilities are substandard and his operation is still on a shoestring, but to the 35 adult and 31 juvenile in-patients and the 150 out-patients, his faith is a beacon of light in the darkness of indifference.

Sharing Congregations Schedule Fellowship

The congregations of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross and St. Paul's Baptist Church, which share the same building of worship on Pine Grove Avenue, are sponsoring a Fellowship Day program Sunday, on the grounds of the Convent of St. Anne, 287 Broadway.

Tea will be served in the back garden from 3 to 6 p. m. by the woman of the two churches. A musical program will be given by Mrs. Mary Crispell and Miss V.D. Smith, vocalists, a choral group from the John A. Coleman School under the direction of Mary Dolan, and Duane Burgess pianist. The public may attend.

The Rev. Oscar Palmer is pastor of St. Paul's Church and the Rev. David L. Bronson is rector of the Church of the Holy Cross.

Salvation Army Activity Stressed in Observance

The scope of activity of the Salvation Army was emphasized this week, National Salvation Army Week, by Lieutenant James Sholtzberger, leader of the Kingston Corps.

One of the Salvation Army's little-known services is its Missing Persons Bureau, which locates more than 1,600 persons throughout the country during the year, said the local Lieutenant. Whereabouts of the local persons are revealed only with their consent.

Last year nearly 6,000 inmates of correctional institutions were enrolled in the Salvation Army's bible study groups, while its employment service has found jobs for over 140,000 persons.

The Army operates 15 Evangeline Residences which provide a home-like atmosphere at modest cost for young business women.

The League of Mercy visits more than 3,350,000 individuals annually in more than 11,000 hospitals and other institutions, said Sholtzberger, while string bands are bringing the Christian message to swinging youngsters in hippie coffee houses and on popular beaches.

Abroad, the Salvation Army cares for victims of leprosy at six centers in Asia, Africa, and South America.

Unitarians Set Sunday's Topic

Our New Social Studies Curriculum will be explained at the Sunday program of the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Viola Opdahl, a Kingston City Schools faculty member who has been working for the past year on a film for the state education department concerning the pilot project. She will examine the manner in which the method of inductive learning is applied to the teaching of concepts such as race relations, peace, patriotism and democratic process.

Last Sunday parents of 17 children participated in a service of dedication presided over by the Rev. Guy Meyer of the Unitarian Universalist Church, Newburgh.

Children included in the group were Alan and Brouck Boyd, David and Peter Chase, Elizabeth Eastman, Janet and Philip Edgar, Nancy and John Johnson, Laurie and David Michael, Robin Natoli, Renee Rao, Nadia and Lali Rumke and Tammy and Thomas Ticknor.

The Unitarian Fellowship meets Sunday 10:30 a. m. at the Pickett House, Lohmeyer Lane and Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine.

Dedication Rites At Cementon

The Rev. Urban Maggio, OFM, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Cementon, announces that the two side altar shrines which have been recently installed and adorned with six beautiful wood carving statues from Italy, will be dedicated on Memorial Day at 7 p. m. The new statues are The Sacred Heart, St. Jude, St. Joseph, St. Anthony, St. Ann and St. Francis. The shrine altars are so beautifully constructed that the three statues magnificently ornate each altar.

The program for the dedication will be as follows: The high Mass will be celebrated by the pastor. The Novices from St. Anthony's Friary in Catskill will sing the Mass with St. Mary's choir. The Rev. Regis Gallo, assistant master of novices, will give the special talk on the occasion. Immediately after the Mass there will be a special service for those who gave their lives for this country followed by the blessing of the new statues and altars.

After the services the congregation will assemble in the church's parking lot where refreshments will be served by the Holy Rosary Society. The Novices will sing and play a few selections.

Mission Guest Will Address AME Society

The Missionaries of Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church, 25 Franklin Street, will hold the annual Missionary service Sunday 3:30 p. m.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Grant H. Williams, chaplain of St. Christopher's School, Dobbs Ferry. A minister of the Hudson River Presbytery, the Rev. Mr. Williams is a graduate of Bloomfield College, Bloomfield N. J.; Lincoln University Theological Seminary and New York Theological Seminary.

He has been chaplain at the school since 1964. His topic will be the work at the school. A slide presentation will illustrate his talk.

The public may attend.

Teen Day Set At St. Peter's

Teen Day is May 26 at St. Peter's School Hall and a variety of events are planned for the 150 teenagers expected to take part.

Theme for the program 2 to 9 p. m. is Teen Insight. A talk, a movie, a folk Mass, discussion groups and a supper-dance will be features.

A group of seminarians from Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary will lead the folk Mass and contribute to the entertainment.

Tickets are available from St. Peter's Confraternity of Christian Doctrine students or CYO Teen Club members. Mrs. Robert Scherer may be contacted for further information and reservations. High school students from all other parishes in Ulster County have been invited to take part and bring their guests.

Successors Fight for Power While Hoffa Sits in Prison

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, sitting in as Teamsters Union president for the imprisoned James R. Hoffa, hints he intends to keep control of the world's biggest union until he can run for election to succeed Hoffa.

Denying a published report that he plans to retire before the next convention of the 1.9 million-member Teamsters in 1971, Fitzsimmons, 60, said, "I will be at this business for years to come."

Fitzsimmons statement, published in the Teamsters' magazine, appeared to confirm other reports that most top union officials discount the possibility of Hoffa getting freed in time for a convention bid to return to power.

"I hope to return," Hoffa said 14 months ago when he was carted off to the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary to serve an eight-year jury-tampering sentence.

Title - No Salary

But while Hoffa still retains the title of president, without the $100,000-a-year salary, his firm control of the union is gone.

Hoffa still is fighting a five-year federal fraud sentence in connection with the use of union pension funds. This is separate from the jury-tampering conviction.

Most Teamsters leaders believe if Hoffa is paroled, it won't be until after the June 1971 convention, when his five-year term as president runs out.

But Fitzsimmons, personally chosen by Hoffa to serve as acting president, isn't expected to have clear sailing to win the Teamsters' presidency in his own right.

Much of the power under Hoffa's firm central control of the union has slipped back to 12 regional vice presidents, who operate with a minimum of consultation with Fitzsimmons.

Several vice presidents—including Harold Gibbons of St. Louis, Murray Miller of Dallas and Ray Schoessling of Chicago—are expected to surface with presidential ambitions of their own by convention time.

With the convention three years away, informed sources are already predicting a wide open convention fight to replace Hoffa as president.

But the fight isn't likely to begin before then. Hoffa, at the 1966 convention eight months before going to prison, directed the rewriting of the Teamsters constitution to block any power play for the presidency unless both he and Fitzsimmons resign.

There appears no possibility that either of them will and so the Teamsters vice presidents, virtually powerless to move before the convention, are biding their time.

Dissenters on Draft Agree to Compromise

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The lawyer for a Roman Catholic priest and an artist sentenced to six years in prison for pouring blood on draft boards filed said the men would agree not to take part in more civil disobedience in order to gain release while their case is appealed.

Bail was denied the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44, a Jesuit priest, and Thomas F. Lewis, 28, an artist, after they were sentenced Friday.

Two hours later, both pleaded innocent when arraigned on charges of seizing and burning records at another Selective Service office May 17 along with seven other pacifists.

Fred Weisgal, lawyer for the two, said he hoped "to have them out next week," adding that this would be with a stipulation they would not be involved in any more civil disobedience.

Also convicted in the blood pouring case were David Eberhardt, 27, a former teacher, and the Rev. James Mengel, 38, an unassigned United Church of Christ minister.

Eberhardt received a three-year sentence from Judge Edward S. Northrop and Mengel's sentencing was postponed to give Northrop time "to seek professional advice."

The four men were convicted of pouring blood—they said it was their own, authorities said it was duck's blood—on records last Oct. 27 at the headquarters for Baltimore's 26 draft boards.

The men, members of the Baltimore Interfaith Peace Mission, pleaded innocent on grounds that they were making a symbolic protest against an immoral war and that there was no criminal intent behind their action.

A jury convicted them April 16 of impeding Selective Service procedures, mutilation of government records and destruction of government property.

Buys FM Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — A company owned by television personality Merv Griffin has been given the permission of the Federal Communications Commission to operate a new FM station in Endicott, N.Y.

Griffin owns Janicor Enterprises, owner of 80 per cent of the stock of WENE Inc., which will operate the station. WENE also operates an AM station in Endicott.

The FCC decision on Wednesday was by a four-one vote with Commissioner Nicholas Johnson dissenting.

'50 Club' to Sponsor Memorial Day Service

The "50" Club will sponsor the first Memorial Day service in over 25 years at the Cornell Park tablet. The bluestone monument, constructed by the residents of the old 7th Ward, is regarded as one of the nicest in the city.

Each Memorial Day a group from the "50" Club provides flowers and the necessary maintenance to make the tablet a fitting memorial for the young men who have made the supreme sacrifice.

Tom Coughlin, who served as chairman of the original committee which erected the tablet, has been overseeing that all the necessary work is done by each Memorial Day for over 25 years. He has done his job well.

A committee co-chaired by Thomas F. Coughlin and Frank C. Sass recently met and formulated plans for a small service on Memorial Day. Planned is a march from the "50" Club rooms on 97 Abel Street to Cornell Park. The American Flag will be much in evidence.

The service in the park will be brief and will include the Pledge to the flag by a small group of children, the Gettysburg address by Pat Vedder a young girl from the neighborhood and brief remarks by Alderman Edward Norton and "50" Club President Tibor Tomshaw. A member of the clergy, not yet announced, also will participate. Richard Scherer and Betty Sass will sing the Star Spangled Banner.

Other members of the committee include Ralph Donnelly, Jim Longendyke and George White. The public is urged to participate in both the march and service. All "50" Club members are asked to report at 11 a. m. on Memorial Day to the club rooms.

Paltz Family Elects Slate At Annual Fete

Elected were Livingston Fryer Jr., president; Harold Lowe, vice president; Claude Simmonds, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Burke, secretary; Mrs. William Percy, treasurer, and Miss Martha Freer, assistant treasurer.

Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, president of the Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, gave a report on recent purchase by the society of the Old Fort, 1799 House and the Rubin Factory. The Freers will purchase a coffee-maker for Deyo Hall.

Reports were given on donations of antique furniture for the Freer-Low homestead on historic Huguenot Street.

Mrs. William Heidegger reported the Freer Genealogy was completed and ready for distribution.

Dorpien Man Held in Jail

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A 25-year-old machine operator was held at the City Jail today after, police said, he barricaded himself in a house and fired six shots into the street.

Marshal Sweiigel of Schenectady telephoned police at about 3:30 p.m. Friday and told them he was at the house and armed. No one else was inside at the time.

A police switchboard operator kept up the conversation while other officers took up positions outside the building.

Police said Sweiigel was armed with a shotgun, a .22 caliber rifle and three hunting knives.

The shots were fired through the front entrance. No one was injured, however.

Sweiigel agreed to surrender shortly after 4 p.m. when, police said, the officer manning the switchboard told him tear gas would be used to flush him out.

Sweiigel was carrying the shotgun and had the knives tucked in his belt when he emerged. He offered no resistance.

Police charged him with reckless endangerment, a felony. Sweiigel was identified as an employee of the General Electric Co. and a Navy veteran.

Dr. Blaiberg Back for Tests

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Philip Blaiberg, 58, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, was back in the hospital today for a series of previously scheduled tests.

The retired dentist, so well recovered from his Jan. 2 operation that he drives a car and even tossed a ball around with a visiting rugby team, entered Groote Schuur Hospital Friday.

"I feel fine," he said as he entered. "This series of tests has been in the cards for some time."

Blaiberg received the heart of a stroke victim in an operation performed by Dr. Christiaan Barnard.

Murder Indictment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Three men have been indicted on charges of murder in the beating and stabbing of Joseph Fesel, 70, in his farmhouse on May 6.

An Erie County grand jury indicted Joseph R. Feniello, 27, of Dunkirk; Gary Kizer, 20, of Buffalo; and Richard Remington, 23, of no permanent address on the charges.

Erie County Sheriff's deputies said three men beat Fesel and slashed him at least 50 times after they forced their way into his home in search of money.

Fesel's sister, Miss Anna Fesel, 78, was also beaten, they said. She was bound and left in a second-floor room.

Deputies said the men took about $300 from the house.

FREDERICK P. CLARK

Former Local Resident Dies, Planning Head

Word has been received here of the death last week of Frederick P. Clark, 59, Tillson native who was Westchester city planning authority.

Clark, a resident of 100 Drake-Hickory Lane, Rye, died at United Hospital, Port Chester, after suffering an apparent stroke.

He served as planning consultant to communities in Westchester County, Long Island and Connecticut and in Putnam County. For 17 years, he served as chairman of the Rye Planning Commission and was owner of Frederick P. Clark Associates of 29 Locust Avenue, Rye.

Born in Tillson, July 7, 1908, he was the son of Mrs. Grace Darling Pareis Clark of Kingston and the late Leon Clark. He was a member of the 1926 Kingston High School graduating class. Clark received a bachelor of architecture degree from Cornell University in 1933 and was a lecturer at Cornell, Columbia and MIT.

He was a past president of the American Institute of Planners, Director of the American Society of Planning Officials and executive director of the Regional Planning Association of New York City.

Surviving in addition to his mother are his widow, the former Jane Ashworth Mason; three sons, Frederick Pareis Jr. of Del Mar, Calif., Bruce Monroe of Norwalk and Douglas Mason of Charlotte, N. C.; two brothers, L. Herbert of Atlanta and Donald C. of Garden City. Three grandchildren also survive.

Hunger Strike In Paltz Over

The four and one-half day hunger strike is over, as the New Paltz College professor who chose to become a symbol of student demands for effective participation in administrative decisions left his self-imposed exile last night.

The 34-year-old instructor of area studies, Roger Knapp, at around 10 p. m. last night, left the conference room he had locked himself in last Monday.

He left upon the advice of the college physician, who claimed the instructor's condition was worsening, and after learning that a panel of students and faculty members were meeting on the issue of mutual participation in what had formerly had the college administrative's decision-making powers regarding the hiring and retaining of faculty members.

According to the State University college public information officer Donald Kent, Knapp had informed the administration in December that he did not want to be retained at the end of June.

In February, Knapp's position was filled. Shortly thereafter, said Kent, Knapp changed his mind and in March, requested the administration reconsider retaining him.

The college administration then considered the instructor for another opening, along with other candidates, but another applicant was chosen.

Right to Jury Trial

The Supreme Court continued this week its tendency to make various provisions of the Bill of Rights binding on the states. It held that the Sixth Amendment's requirement of jury trials in criminal cases, except only in petty offenses, is binding on the states also.

The ruling upset a precedent begun in 1900, when the Supreme Court ruled that a state jury of less than 12 members was permissible because the Sixth Amendment applied only to Federal trials. As a result, states have in the interim been constitutionally free to work out their own jury procedures.

Writing the majority opinion in a 7 to 2 decision, Justice Byron R. White held that jury trials are so fundamental to the American notion of justice that they are required in state cases by provisions of the 14th Amendment, which forbids states to deny individuals the right to life and liberty without due process of law.

The opinion left open the question of what constitutes a serious case where a jury trial is mandatory. White noted that in Federal cases a petty offense is one carrying a maximum penalty of six months' imprisonment and a $50 fine. Traditionally, petty offenses are tried without a right of jury trial, and this remains true under the new rule.

The case at issue was a simple battery charge in which the maximum penalty was two years in jail and a fine of $300, but the sentence was 60 days in jail and $150 fine. Nevertheless, the sentence was reversed because a request for a jury trial was refused. The impact on state courts is immense because so many deny jury trials in misdemeanor cases carrying jail terms of one year. It will require many more jury trials and slow down the process of justice.

The Secret Depression

From his observation as vice chairman of the President's Riot Commission, Mayor John V. Lindsay told Congress that major urban areas have been going through what amounts to a secret depression for the past 15 years. He forecast a national tragedy if at least 300,000 new jobs are not provided this year for the hard-core unemployed.

"Ten weeks have passed since the riot commission reported to the nation," Lindsay said. "In the interim, a great civil rights leader has been killed, 110 cities have been convulsed by new disorders and an army of poor people is marching on Washington. Yet the administration and the Congress have shown small enthusiasm for the positive strong programs the commission proposed."

The commission urged the creation of two million jobs in three years—a million in the public sector and a million provided by private industry. An administration plan to create 70,000 new jobs this year is wholly inadequate, Lindsay said. He insisted that 300,000 is the minimum acceptable response.

The rule of thumb is that it costs $10,000 to create a new job. For one million jobs, that would mean an outlay of $10 billion, the exact amount the proposed income tax surtax would raise if it is passed. It would cost the same in the private sector to create another million jobs. There is no taxing power to furnish that sum, unless government were to subsidize industry and provide the necessary training to qualify men and women for such work. That is the big stumbling block to the program at a moment of time when the squeeze on public financing is so tight.

Henry J. Taylor Says Red Satellites in Europe

The explosive news from Red satellites in Europe calls for interpretation in terms of each particular country. The generalizations about the Soviet bloc can get a distant reader as mixed up as the gypsies who cry at christenings and dance at funerals.

Throughout the satellite area the ethnic, economic and geographic differences are great. But Russia herself is an area of immense ethnic differences and 17 languages, and more than half of its population is not Russian.

The bloc's economic dynamo is East Germany, which is actually not a satellite country at all. It is an occupied country. A uniformed Soviet commandant and his administrative staff is on duty in every East German center and in more than 100 communities right down to the grass roots.

This is the only country in Europe, and probably in the entire world, whose population is less than it was in 1948. More than three million fled westward before the Berlin wall was built and even the births in the past 20 years have not gained that number back.

If you come in from the West, you find the living standards bad. It is 30 per cent lower than that of West Germany. But it averages about 40 per cent higher than in the other satellites. And when you look at East Germany from the USSR it's a paradise. By Moscow's own figures the East German standard of living is 30 per cent higher than in Russia.

As one result, the prize assignment in the Russia army is to be sent to East Germany—a reward billet for the cream of the crop of the Kremlin's forces, 300,000 strong. The East Germans are mostly people who today do as they are told.

Red Czechoslovakia is the westernmost of the satellites. The traditional great links with the United States still exercise their gravitational pull. More Czechs don't like the Russians, but for reasons recently detailed in this column even members of the Czech underground will tell you there, sadly, that a revolt could be stopped by the Russians before it even got started.

In Hungary a Soviet mechanized division rings the 1.2 million people of Budapest and 11 airdromes house the Kremlin's tactical air force. This force has been there ever since Khrushchev's reconquest of Hungary in 1956. More than 35,000 dead and wounded Hungarians are the monument to the people's heroic effort to break the Red bonds at that time. Thinking our aid was coming, and entreating it with indescribable poignancy, mothers of the Budapest Fighters stood before the American Embassy and sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Although our help was impossible and most Hungarians are intensely pro-American, the strain of this cataclysmic disappointment remains.

Three stories you hear there tell you much: A worker's story: "It's impossible to do anything right. If you arrive five minutes early you are a saboteur. If you arrive five minutes late you are betraying socialism. If you arrive on time the commissar asks, 'Where did you get the watch?'"

A peasant's story about the farmer who shouts as he beats the cart horse: "Pull, beast, this wagon belongs to you."

An intellectual's story about a professor who went into a Budapest store to buy some tea. "Russian or Chinese?" the storekeeper asked. "Make it coffee instead," the professor said.

Each of these vignettes touches a side of Hungarian life—the worker's frustration, the unnaturalness in agricultural planning, and the scorched-earth warfare against free thought.

Tigerish (and prejudiced) French statesman Georges Clemenceau once caustically characterized Rumania and Bulgaria. "They are countries," he said, "where the women without virtue, the men without valor." But in Poland the fighting tradition flows through the centuries and much resistance remains, as in Hungary.

Even at the time of Napoleon's Russian adventure, Poland had already been dismembered and partitioned three times in 23 years. It has always been in the untenable position of a land mass without natural borders. And the Kremlin is continuing to find that it is one thing to eat the Poles but quite another to digest them. Honor to the brave.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The United States has several Memorial Days. One will be celebrated next Thursday.

Flags will be raised, speeches will be intoned, and millions of people will make sorrowful pilgrimages to cemeteries.

This is the one hundredth anniversary of the original Memorial Day. It was the notion of General John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic to set aside May 30th, 1868, "for the purpose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion." He said he hoped that the idea will be kept up from year to year.

Logan, of course, was a Union general and his notion alienated the South. The Commonwealth of Virginia accepted the date, but called it "Confederate Memorial Day." The states of Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas selected June 3rd, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, father of the Confederacy, as their Memorial Day. Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida made April 26th their day of solemn recollection.

North Carolina and South Carolina picked May 10th. It becomes apparent that we cannot agree on a day of grief. Still, the idea of having such a day spread until now embraces more than our war dead—people everywhere decorate graves on Memorial Day. Entire families adjourn to cemeteries after early dinner.

Headstones are studied with their grim statistics of birth and death. The grave will be mulched by someone who remembered to bring a toy shovel or trowel. Bitter opinions will be expressed about "perpetual care." Stiff and rusty bouquets from other days will be lifted in their wire frames and carried to a trash heap.

Geraniums in little brick pots will be planted. Sprays of gay flowers will be laid tenderly on graves. People with sprinkling cans will find water. Somewhere upwind, the faint sad notes of taps will be heard.

The elders will stand, worn hands clasped, to murmur a prayer. They may stare with fascination at the grave because, in their muteness, they know that soon, all too soon, their time will come. At best it is a day for flagellating love.

Those who are honored are not aware of it. The souls are not among the stones. If they are, everything we have been taught about the spirit of God and man is wrong. The dead, fortunately, are deprived of the one sentiment that afflicts the living—memory. One who does not remember cannot regret.

It is fortunate that this country requires a special day on which to honor its dead. It is doubly sad that the best we can do is to visit a cemetery and stand in silence over ashes. If the dead could speak, isn't it possible that they might say: "Go to a temple in my name. What are you doing here?"

Behind the beachhead at Anzio, in Italy, you will find an enormous field, with white crosses. You will find another at Iwo Jima, where the gallant young men of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine Divisions are buried. The Punch Bowl, inside an extinct volcano at Gaba, is full of small bronze plates in long steady rows.

In France, the American dead of World War I crowd the graves of their WW II sons. America exports white crosses all over the world. Who will visit these—the most worthy of them all? A few officers, a color guard? I visited a cousin, Joe McCarthy, at a grave in Wiener Neustadt, Austria. He wasn't there any more. An official said: "They have all been moved to Munich."

On reflection, it isn't important. After all, death is the cross of the living. It is for those who are warm and vibrant to suffer. My mother and my first wife are two rows apart in New Jersey. I haven't been there in years, because it was useless, futile and heart-wrenching.

After 10 minutes of standing and looking and remembering, I always left wondering why I tortured myself. And yet, I never permit a day to go by without remembering them. The good old days are difficult to erase. The bad ones fade almost at once.

A week ago, I stood at the grave of John F. Kennedy. I admired this dreamer. I still do. And yet, as I stood with hands clasped, all I could say to myself was: "Look at the stone around the eternal flame. It's cracked already."

Drew Pearson Says Johnson Predicts There Always Will Be Wayne Morse

On Jan. 16, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that Dr. James L. Goddard's days were numbered as Administrator of Food and Drug. They said flatly he would be relieved.

On May 21, Dr. Goddard's resignation was announced.

WASHINGTON—Two of the strongest-willed men in Washington are Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Wayne Morse of Oregon. They are men who disagree on a lot of things publicly but agree on even more things privately. They also have a lot of respect for each other.

When Morse was running for re-election 12 years ago, Lyndon Johnson, then Majority Leader of the Senate, attended a $50 fund-raising luncheon for him and made a brief speech.

"When Wayne was a Republican," he said, "he came to Texas to campaign against me. He reminded Texans that under the Constitution they were entitled to two Representatives in the U.S. Senate, but had none."

"One of your Senators, Price Daniel," Wayne told them, "represents the oil companies. The other Senator, Lyndon Johnson," Wayne said, "represents only himself."

"But I want Wayne to know that I'm willing to come to Oregon to campaign either for him or against him," concluded Johnson. "Whichever will help him most."

Twelve years have passed since then and 24 years since Morse was elected to the Senate. Once again, he is up for renomination in a primary vote next week.

Since their differences of 12 years ago there have been more differences over the war in Vietnam; but with many agreements over labor problems and education. Johnson has called on Morse to act as mediator in five vitally important labor disputes. At least one of which earned Morse the bitter opposition of the Machinists, though the respect of most other labor leaders.

The President has also called on Morse to pilot his education legislation — the most far-reaching in American history—through the Senate.

Last December, after Morse passed the education bill by an overwhelming vote, the President called him to the White House to thank him. "I want you to know," he announced to assembled Senators, "that I don't engage in primaries. But I'm a Morse man. Out in Oregon they say there will always be Wayne Morse."

Campaign Spending
If a committee of Pulitzer winners undertakes a scrutiny of big spending in elections, one book it should read is "Kennedy Campaigning" by Murray D. Levin, a professor of government at Boston University. We also recommend this to those who are interested in free elections.

It may be a difficult book to purchase. The Kennedy family almost succeeded in suppressing it altogether and there are only a few copies at the bookstores.

They threatened to sue the Beacon Press and brought terrific pressure through contributors to the Unitarian Universalist church (which owns Beacon Press) to keep the book from being published.

"They threatened to sue if we published the book," said Goblin Stair, director of Beacon Press. "We published the book anyway, and they did not sue."

What Mr. Stair did not mention was that the Kennedy pressure was as intense for a time he went to the hospital. Nevertheless he stuck to his guns and "Kennedy Campaigning" was published, though quietly.

The book pertains to the miraculous manner in which a young man of only 29, Edward Kennedy, was able to overcome the handicap of age, lack of experience and being almost unknown to win election to the Senate. The chief secret was money and the manner in which it was spent. It reads like some of the accounts of Bobby's current campaign and is worth reviewing today.

Electric Dollar Drain
In blatant disregard of President Johnson's plea to businessmen to curb overseas spending, the private power companies went on a buying spree last year in Europe.

They spent $141,500,000 for turbine generators, almost triple the $55,000,000 they had spent for foreign turbine generators in all prior years combined.

Southern California Edison paid $13,500,000 for a unit from English Electric. Consolidated Edison spent $48,000,000 for two units from another British firm, Associated Electric Industries, and American Electric Power shelled out a whopping $80,000,000 for four units from Brown Boveri of Switzerland.

Even more amazing, the government's own Tennessee Valley Authority bought two units from Brown Boveri for $28,500,000. The Puerto Rico Water Resources Authority, another public body, paid Brown Boveri $13,000,000 for two small units. And the Los Angeles Water Department bought a $13,500,000 unit from English Electric.

The private and public purchases combined added a staggering $196,500,000 to the gold drain.

Merry Go-Round

Bobby Kennedy's cohorts are boasting privately that the Los Angeles Times won't publish any Washington Merry-Go-Round columns about Bobby because its national editor, Ed Guthman, was once Bobby's right-hand man in the Justice Department. We don't believe Guth-man would act as censor. But the boast is interesting in view of the roar raised by Bobby's press aide, Pierre Salinger, over alleged prejudiced news treatment by the Indianapolis Star and News . . . President Johnson has nicknamed his grandson "Khrushchev" because of his stocky build. LBJ has substituted exercising with his grandson for his beagle walks around the White House lawn.

Mrs. Averell Harriman is going to Paris to rent a house—a sure sign that her husband, the true talk negotiator, figures on being away a long time . . . Israeli Ambassador Isaac Rabin has been called home to consult on Egypt's latest peace proposal. It may have some latent possibilities.

Nixon Losing Momentum

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

PORTLAND, Ore. (NEA)—

A nationwide NEA survey of potential Republican convention delegate strength shows presidential candidate Richard Nixon holding strong front position, without real gain, while Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has made a modest advance.

In a late March NEA count of delegates, Nixon had indicated 699 votes—32 more than the 667 needed for nomination at Miami Beach in August. The new poll gives him a nearly identical 701.

Rockefeller, at the very moment of his March 21 pull-out, was considered to have 377. The just completed count gives him 43 more, for a total of 422—substantial, but still well off a winning pace.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, still an undeclared candidate though now the beneficiary of a 22 per cent vote in Nebraska's primary, runs up a potential 149 votes in the first survey.

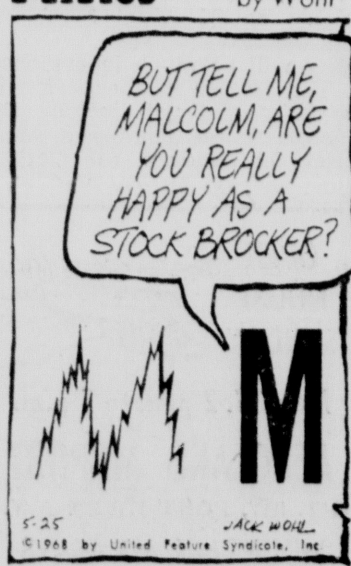

Rockefeller's most notable gains appear in Michigan, Kansas and New Jersey. He has made smaller pickups in Hawaii, some of the Mountain States, Iowa, Illinois and New England.

His surprise capture of 34 Massachusetts delegates through a write-in primary victory April 30, the same day he announced formal candidacy, had in effect been disguised by NEA's earlier poll. It awarded him 30 on the judgment he would get them once "favorite son" Gov. John Volpe loosed his expected hold on the delegation. Volpe, beaten in the write-in, never gained that hold.

Damaged by Delay

Had the New York governor jumped into the race March 21, he might be moving toward a still higher delegate total. His decision not to go, and to stay out of all primaries, clearly damaged him in some quarters.

PIXies by Wohl

Some "soft" Nixon votes solidified for the front-runner as Rockefeller supporters became discouraged here and there. Governor Spiro Agnew of Maryland and Tom McCall of Oregon, who had gone out on a long limb for Rocky, were angered. Agnew today is throwing out tentative lines to Nixon, though the latter has not yet pressed to alter the 22-to-4 Maryland delegate count favoring Rockefeller.

Rockefeller has lost ground in Minnesota, Alaska, Washington. His failure to enter primaries automatically awarded Oregon and South Dakota to Nixon, though Reagan is something of a threat to the former vice president in Oregon. A costly television and advertising campaign is being mounted for the California governor here.

Yet the striking thing is that Rockefeller did not collapse altogether in his March 21-April 30 "dry period," and that Nixon did not simply run away with the contest.

Nixon's Electability

In the earlier NEA poll, the general judgment was offered that a considerable part of the Nixon total was soft and fluid. The key to this was concern among both leaders and party rank and file over Nixon's electability in November. The "we want a winner" theme was dominant.

The new poll seems to confirm that prior finding. Some of Nixon's indicated vote in March has been pried away. Rockefeller gains 20 in Michigan, 10 in Kansas (previously listed uncommitted), and eight in New Jersey. But Nixon's advances elsewhere pulled him back to a level a shade higher than before.

The net of this cross-hatching movement, however, is to suggest that Nixon, for all his evident immense lead, is not developing fresh momentum. To some experienced politicians, maintenance of momentum is crucial to a candidate's nomination prospects.

There is danger for Nixon in this development, especially when it is coupled with national public opinion polls showing him doing less well than Rockefeller against the three leading Democratic contenders.

This reporter's newest coast-to-coast checks indicate places where more and more delegates could be broken off from Nixon's total by a rising Rockefeller assault. He could squeeze out more in Connecticut, New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, and a bit here and there in the West.

Many Are Worried

Any large crack in the Nixon delegate facade could start a serious crumbling process. Inquiries make it plain that many GOP leaders, including some who came to favor Nixon, fear just this. Curiously, they are not wholly reassured by polls which show him as well as Rocky beating their prospective Democratic rivals. A deep-seated worry appears to grip many Republicans.

Nevertheless, no top party figure is quite sure what combination of factors—high Rockefeller poll showings, strong endorsements, evidence of rising public excitement—might develop to create the cracking pressure Rockefeller needs to make real strides. There is motion in the race, but it has not boiled into a tide.

Nixon and his highly skilled political agents and allies are not idle in the face of this prospect of danger. They are trying to harden his vote potential in the areas of his heaviest strength—the South, the West, the Middle East.

The Reagan Threat

The threat in some of these places is not Rockefeller directly—but Reagan. Very real voter sentiment for him in South and West seeks outlet. Yet pro-Nixon leaders have thus far managed to suppress much of it, and believe they can squeeze it down even tighter if the Rockefeller challenge grows stronger. A wide judgement is that Reagan's potential would break into the open only if Nixon were collapsing.

In the end, Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, favorite son and temporary guardian of most of his state's 58 votes, may be the key to watch. If he moves to Nixon, the latter's great potential will be transformed into irresistible victory. If he heads toward Rocky, it will be a sign Nixon has crumbled and another tide is flowing.

Right to Jury Trial

The Supreme Court continued this week its tendency to make various provisions of the Bill of Rights binding on the states. It held that the Sixth Amendment's requirement of Jury trials in criminal cases, except only in petty offenses, is binding on the states also.

The ruling upset a precedent begun in 1900, when the Supreme Court ruled that a state jury of less than 12 members was permissible because the Sixth Amendment applied only to Federal trials. As a result, states have in the interim been constitutionally free to work out their own jury procedures.

Writing the majority opinion in a 7 to 2 decision, Justice Byron R. White held that jury trials are so fundamental to the American notion of justice that they are required in state cases by provisions of the 14th Amendment, which forbids states to deny individuals the right to life and liberty without due process of law.

The opinion left open the question of what constitutes a serious case where a jury trial is mandatory. White noted that in Federal cases a petty offense is one carrying a maximum penalty of six months' imprisonment and a $50 fine. Traditionally, petty offenses are tried without a right of jury trial, and this remains true under the new rule.

The case at issue was a simple battery charge in which the maximum penalty was two years in jail and a fine of $300, but the sentence was 60 days in jail and $150 fine. Nevertheless, the sentence was reversed because a request for a jury trial was refused. The impact on state courts is immense because so many deny jury trials in misdemeanor cases carrying jail terms of one year. It will require many more jury trials and slow down the process of justice.

The Secret Depression

From his observation as vice chairman of the President's Riot Commission, Mayor John V. Lindsay told Congress that major urban areas have been going through what amounts to a secret depression for the past 15 years. He forecast a national tragedy if at least 300,000 new jobs are not provided this year for the hard-core unemployed.

"Ten weeks have passed since the riot commission reported to the nation," Lindsay said. "In the interim, a great civil rights leader has been killed, 110 cities have been convulsed by new disorders and an army of poor people is marching on Washington. Yet the administration and the Congress have shown small enthusiasm for the positive strong programs the commission proposed."

The commission urged the creation of two million jobs in three years—a million in the public sector and a million provided by private industry. An administration plan to create 70,000 new jobs this year is wholly inadequate, Lindsay said. He insisted that 300,000 is the minimum acceptable response.

The rule of thumb is that it costs $10,000 to create a new job. For one million jobs, that would mean an outlay of $10 billion, the exact amount the proposed income tax surtax would raise if it is passed. It would cost the same in the private sector to create another million jobs. There is no taxing power to furnish that sum, unless government were to subsidize industry and provide the necessary training to qualify men and women for such work. That is the big stumbling block to the program at a moment of time when the squeeze on public financing is so tight.

Birds of a Feather

Henry J. Taylor Says Red Satellites in Europe

The explosive news from Red satellites in Europe calls for interpretation in terms of each particular country. The generalizations about the Soviet bloc can get a distant reader as mixed up as the gypsies who cry at christenings and dance at funerals.

Throughout the satellite area the ethnic, economic and geographic differences are great. But Russia herself is an area of immense ethnic differences and 17 languages, and more than half of its population is not Russian.

The bloc's economic dynamo is East Germany, which is actually not a satellite country at all. It is an occupied country. A uniformed Soviet commandant and his administrative staff is on duty in every East German center and in more than 100 communities right down to the grass roots.

This is the only country in Europe, and probably in the entire world, whose population is less than it was in 1948. More than three million fled westward before the Berlin wall was built and even the births in the past 20 years have not gained that number back.

If you come in from the West, you find the living standards bad. It is 30 per cent lower than that of West Germany. But it averages about 40 per cent higher than in the other satellites. And when you look at East Germany from the USSR it's a paradise. By Moscow's own figures the East German standard of living is 30 per cent higher than in Russia.

As one result, the prize assignment in the Russia army is to be sent to East Germany—a reward billet for the cream of the crop of the Kremlin's forces. 300,000 strong. The East Germans are mostly people who today do as they are told.

Red Czechoslovakia is the westernmost of the satellites. The traditional great links with the United States still exercise their gravitational pull. More Czechs don't like the Russians, but for reasons recently detailed in this column even members of the Czech underground will tell you there, sadly, that a revolt could be stopped by the Russians before it even got started.

In Hungary a Soviet mechanized division rings the 1.2 million people of Budapest and 11 airdromes house the Kremlin's tactical air force. This force has been there ever since Khrushchev's reconquest of Hungary in 1956. More than 35,000 dead and wounded Hungarians are the monument to the people's heroic effort to break the Red bonds at that time. Thinking our aid was coming, and entreating it with indescribable poignancy, mothers of the Budapest fighters stood before the American Embassy and sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Although our help was impossible and most Hungarians are intensely pro-American, the strain of this cataclysmic disappointment remains.

Three stories you hear there tell you much: A worker's story: "It's impossible to do anything right. If you arrive five minutes early you are a saboteur. If you arrive five minutes late you are betraying socialism. If you arrive on time the commissar asks, 'Where did you get the watch?'"

A peasant's story about the farmer who shouts as he beats the cart horse: "Pull, beast, this wagon belongs to you." An intellectual's story about a professor who went into a Budapest store to buy some tea. "Russian or Chinese?" the storekeeper asked. "Make it coffee instead," the professor said.

Each of these vignettes touches a side of Hungarian life—the worker's frustration, the unnaturalness in agricultural planning, and the scorched-earth warfare against free thought.

Tigerish (and prejudiced) French statesman Georges Clemenceau once caustically characterized Rumania and Bulgaria. "They are countries," he said, "where the rose is without fragrance, the women without virtue, the men without valor." But in Poland the fighting tradition flows through the centuries and much resistance remains, as in Hungary.

Even at the time of Napoleon's Russian adventure, Poland had already been dismembered and partitioned three times in 23 years. It has always been in the untenable position of a land mass without natural borders. And the Kremlin is continuing to find that it is one thing to eat the Poles but quite another to digest them. Honor to the brave.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

to cemeteries after early dinner.

Headstones are studied with their grim statistics of birth and death. The grave will be mulched by someone who remembered to bring a toy shovel or trowel. Bitter opinions will be expressed about "perpetual care." Stiff and rusty bouquets from other days will be lifted in their wire frames and carried to a trash heap.

Geraniums in little brick pots will be planted. Sprays of gay flowers will be laid tenderly on graves. People with sprinkling cans will find water. Somewhere upwind, the faint sad notes of taps will be heard.

The elders will stand, worn hands clasped, to murmur a prayer. They may stare with fascination at the grave because, in their muteness, they know that soon, all too soon, their time will come. At best it is a day for flagellating love.

Those who are honored are not aware of it. The souls are not among the stones. If they are, everything we have been taught about the spirit of God and man is wrong. The dead, fortunately, are deprived of the one sentiment that afflicts the living—memory. One who does not remember cannot regret.

It is fortunate that this country requires a special day on which to honor its dead. It is doubly sad that the best we can do is to visit a cemetery and stand in silence over ashes. If the dead could speak, isn't it possible that they might say: "Go to the temple in my name. What are you doing here?"

Behind the beachhead at Anzio, in Italy, you will find an enormous field, with white crosses. You will find another at Iwo Jima, where the gallant young men of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine Divisions are buried. The Punch Bowl, inside an extinct volcano at Gabe, is full of small bronze plates in long steady rows.

In France, the American dead of World War I crowd the graves of their WW II sons. America exports white crosses all over the world. Who will visit these—the most worthy of them all? A few officers, a color guard? I visited a cousin, Joe McCarthy, at a grave in Wiener Neustadt, Austria. He wasn't there any more. An official said: "The have all been moved to Munich."

On reflection, it isn't important. After all, death is the cross of the living. It is for those who are warm and vibrant to suffer. My mother and my first wife are two rows apart in New Jersey. I haven't been there in years, because it was useless, futile and heart-wrenching.

After 10 minutes of standing and looking and remembering, I always left wondering why I tortured myself. And yet, I never permit a day to go by without remembering them. The good old days are difficult to erase. The bad ones fade almost at once.

A week ago, I stood at the grave of John F. Kennedy. I admired this dreamer. I still do. And yet, as I stood with hands clasped, all I could say to myself was: "Look at the stone around the eternal flame. It's cracked already."

Drew Pearson Says Johnson Predicts There Always Will Be Wayne Morse

On Jan. 16, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that Dr. James L. Goddard's days were numbered as Administrator of Food and Drug. They said flatly he would be relieved.

On May 21, Dr. Goddard's resignation was announced.

WASHINGTON—Two of the strongest-willed men in Washington are Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Wayne Morse of Oregon. They are men who disagree on a lot of things publicly but agree on even more things privately. They also have a lot of respect for each other.

When Morse was running for re-election 12 years ago, Lyndon Johnson, then Majority Leader of the Senate, attended a $50 fund-raising luncheon for him and made a brief speech.

"When Wayne was a Republican," he said, "he came to Texas to campaign against me. He reminded Texans that under the Constitution they were entitled to two Representatives in the U.S. Senate, but had none."

"One of your Senators, Price Daniel," Wayne told them, "represents the oil companies. The other Senator, Lyndon Johnson," Wayne said, "represents only himself."

"But I want Wayne to know that I'm willing to come to Oregon to campaign either for him or against him," concluded Johnson. "Whichever will help him most."

Twelve years have passed since then and 24 years since Morse was elected to the Senate. Once again, he is up for renomination in a primary vote next week.

Since their differences of 12 years ago there have been more differences over the war in Vietnam; but with many agreements over labor problems and education. Johnson has called on Morse to act as mediator in five vitally important labor disputes, at least one of which earned Morse the bitter opposition of the Machinists, though the respect of most other labor leaders.

The President has also called on Morse to pilot his education legislation—the most far-reaching in American history—through the Senate.

Last December, after Morse passed the education bill by an overwhelming vote, the President called him to the White House to thank him.

"I want you to know," he announced to assembled Senators, "that I don't engage in primaries. But I'm a Morse man. Out in Oregon they say there will always be Wayne Morse."

Campaign Spending

If a committee of Pulitzer winners undertakes a scrutiny of big spending in elections, one book it should read is "Kennedy Campaigning" by Murray D. Levin, a professor of government at Boston University. We also recommend this to those who are interested in free elections.

It may be a difficult book to purchase. The Kennedy family almost succeeded in suppressing it altogether and there are only a few copies at the bookstores.

They threatened to sue the Beacon Press and brought terrific pressure through contributors to the Unitarian Universalist church (which owns Beacon Press) to keep the book from being published.

"They threatened to sue if we published the book," said Goblin Stair, director of Beacon Press. "We published the book anyway, and they did not sue."

What Mr. Stair did not mention was that the Kennedy pressure was so intense for a time he went to the hospital. Nevertheless he stuck to his guns and "Kennedy Campaigning" was published, though quietly.

The book pertains to the miraculous manner in which a young man of only 29, Edward Kennedy, was able to overcome the handicap of age, lack of experience and being almost unknown to win election to the Senate. The chief secret was money and the manner in which it was spent. It reads like some of the accounts of another Bobby's current campaign and is worth reviewing today.

Electric Dollar Drain

In blatant disregard of President Johnson's plea to businessmen to curb overseas spending, the private power companies went on a buying spree last year in Europe.

They spent $141,500,000 for turbine generators, almost triple the $55,000,000 they had spent for foreign turbine generators in all prior years combined.

Southern California Edison paid $13,500,000 for a unit from English Electric. Consolidated Edison spent $48,000,000 for two units from another British firm, Associated Electric Industries. And American Electric Power shelled out a whopping $80,000,000 for four units from Brown Boveri of Switzerland.

Even more amazing, the government's own Tennessee Valley Authority bought two units from Brown Boveri for $28,500,000. The Puerto Rico Water Resources Authority, another public body, paid Brown Boveri $13,000,000 for two small units. And the Los Angeles Water Department bought a $13,500,000 unit from English Electric.

The private and public purchases combined added a staggering $196,500,000 to the gold drain.

Merry Go-Round

Bobby Kennedy's cohorts are boasting privately that the Los Angeles Times won't publish any Washington Merry-Go-Round columns about Bobby because its national editor, Ed Guthman, was once Bobby's righthand man in the Justice Department. We don't believe Guthman would act as censor. But the boast is interesting in view of the roar raised by Bobby's press aide, Pierre Salinger, over alleged prejudiced news treatment by the Indianapolis Star and News . . .

President Johnson has nicknamed his grandson "Khrushchev" because of his stocky build. LBJ has substituted exercising with his grandson for his beagle walks around the White House lawn . . . Mrs. Averell Harriman is going to Paris to rent a house—a sure sign that her husband, the trustee talk negotiator, figures on being away a long time . . . Israeli Ambassador Isaac Rabin has been called home to consult on Egypt's latest peace proposal. It may have some latent possibilities.

Nixon Losing Momentum

NEA Washington Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore. (NEA)—A nationwide NEA survey of potential Republican convention delegate strength shows presidential candidate Richard Nixon holding strong front position, without real gain, while Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has made a modest advance.

In a late March NEA count of delegates, Nixon had an indicated 699 votes—32 more than the 667 needed for nomination at Miami Beach in August. The new poll gives him a nearly identical 701.

Rockefeller, at the very moment of his March 21 pull-out, was considered to have 377. The just completed count gives him 45 more, for a total of 422—substantial, but still well off a winning pace.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, still an undeclared candidate though now the beneficiary of a 22 per cent vote in Nebraska's primary, runs up a potential 149 votes in the first survey.

Rockefeller's most notable gains appear in Michigan, Kansas and New Jersey. He has made smaller pickups in Hawaii, some of the Mountain States, Iowa, Illinois and New England.

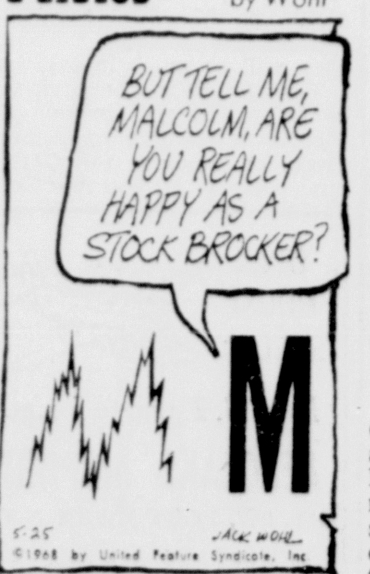

His surprise capture of 34 Massachusetts delegates through a write-in primary victory April 30, the same day he announced formal candidacy, had in effect been discounted by NEA's earlier poll. It awarded him 30 on the judgment he would get them once "favorite son" Gov. John Volpe loosed his expected hold on the delegation. Volpe, beaten in the write-in, never gained that hold.

Damaged by Delay

Had the New York governor jumped into the race March 21, he might be moving toward a still higher delegate total. His decision not to go, and to stay out of all primaries, clearly damaged him in some quarters.

PIXies

by Wohl

Some "soft" Nixon votes solidified for the front-runner as Rockefeller supporters became discouraged here and there. Governor Spiro Agnew of Maryland and Tom McCall of Oregon, who had gone out on a long limb for Rocky, were angered. Agnew today is throwing out tentative lines to Nixon, though the latter has not yet pressed to alter the 22-to-4 Maryland delegate count favoring Rockefeller.

Rockefeller has lost ground in Minnesota, Alaska, Washington. His failure to enter primaries automatically awarded Oregon and South Dakota to Nixon, though Reagan is something of a threat to the former vice president in Oregon. A costly television and advertising campaign is being mounted for the California governor here.

Yet the striking thing is that Rockefeller did not collapse altogether in his March 21-April 30 "dry period," and that Nixon did not simply run away with the contest.

Nixon's Electability

In the earlier NEA poll, the general judgment was offered that a considerable part of the Nixon total was soft and fluid. The key to this was concern among both leaders and party rank and file over Nixon's electability in November. The "we want a winner" theme was dominant.

Announce Bus Transportation For Senior Citizens Event

Arrangements for two-way transportation for the Senior Citizens Party Monday, May 27 at the Municipal Auditorium starting with supper at 5:30 p.m., has been arranged, according to Alexander Yosman, coordinator of the Senior Citizens Advisory Council.

Buses will make pickup stops at locations as follows:

Grand Union, Albany Avenue and Roosevelt Avenue, at 4 p.m.; Wiltwyck Gardens, Albany Avenue, at 4:10 p.m.; YWCA, Clinton Avenue, at 4:20 p.m.; Community Action Recreation Center, 60 Broadway, at 4:40; St. Ursula's at 4:50; White Eagle Hall on Delaware Avenue at 5 p.m.; School 2 at West Chestnut Street and Montrepose Avenue at 5:10.

Other Stops

Firehouse at Wilbur Avenue and Abeel Street at 4 p.m.; Home for the Aged on Washington Avenue at 4:15 p.m.; Beck's Market on Emerson Street at 4:25; Forsyth Park on Lucas Avenue at 4:35; Babcock's Dairy on Hurley Avenue at 4:45 p.m.; Bull Market at Hurley and Washington Avenues at 4:55 p.m.; Schwenk's Bakery on Foxhall Avenue at 5:20, and Forst Market at Clifton Avenue and Stephan Street at 5:30 p.m.

All senior citizens of the community are invited to attend this party free of charge. The event is sponsored jointly by the Senior Citizens Advisory Council, the Kingston Recreation Department and the Golden Age Club. Yosman said he hopes that all senior citizens will make an effort to attend the party.

Entertainment will be provided by an eight-piece orchestra under the direction of Wendell (Speed) Scherer, who is coming out of retirement to play for this cause. He is a great believer in any event that is beneficial to the senior citizens. The orchestra is provided by Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, as part of the transcription fund.

List Entertainers
During the evening Harriet Nussbaum and Dick Scherer will render solos appropriate for the occasion. Pete Mathews, Tony Pizzarelli and Charlie Cole will entertain as a band. All of the entertainers are well known to area residents and have made numerous appearances at events conducted by local organizations.

Yosman said door prizes will be offered and the program will consist of other entertainment. The sponsoring groups have invited all senior citizens of the community to attend the event and participate in the supper and enjoy the entertainment.

Buses will pick up the senior citizens at the locations specified and return them to those points after the party.

Walter Thayer Is Appointed To NY Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has named two corporation presidents, an adviser to New York City's mayor and an aide to the Democratic Assembly speaker to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

The appointments were confirmed early today by the Senate. The agency was created last year to oversee improvement of mass-transit facilities in the New York City area. Members are paid $150 a day while on official business, up to $15,000 a year.

The appointees, announced Friday, and their terms: Walter N. Thayer of Rye, president of Whitney Communications Corp., to June 30, 1971; Leonard Braun of Halesite, president of Piping Rock Petroleum Co. Inc., to June 30, 1969; Donald H. Elliott, Manhattan chairman of the New York City Planning Commission, to June 30, 1970, and Harold L. Fisher of Brooklyn, legal counsel to Speaker Anthony J. Travia, to June 30, 1972.

Rockefeller's office said Elliott and Thayer were recommended by Mayor John V. Lindsay, who has the authority to select two appointees.

ACCEPTS VAN KEYS — Ray Joseph of Ray Chevrolet on Broadway, presents the keys to a 1968 Chevrolet Sport Van to Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harvey of Rest Haven, 21 Elizabeth Street, Kingston. The van will be used to transport the senior citizens, residents of their home, to social and civic affairs, on shopping tours and trips. This is one of many services offered by the Harveys to residents of Rest Haven. (Freeman photo) by Kruh.

Announce Bus Transportation For Senior Citizens Event

Arrangements for two-way transportation for the Senior Citizens Party Monday, May 27 at the Municipal Auditorium starting with supper at 5:30 p.m., has been arranged, according to Alexander Yosman, coordinator of the Senior Citizens Advisory Council.

Buses will make pickup stops at locations as follows:

Grand Union, Albany Avenue and Roosevelt Avenue, at 4 p.m.; Wiltwyck Gardens, Albany Avenue, at 4:10 p.m.; YWCA, Clinton Avenue, at 4:20 p.m.; Community Action Recreation Center, 60 Broadway, at 4:40; St. Ursula's at 4:50; White Eagle Hall on Delaware Avenue at 5 p.m.; School 2 at West Chestnut Street and Montrepose Avenue at 5:10.

Other Stops

Firehouse at Wilbur Avenue and Abel Street at 4 p.m.; Home for the Aged on Washington Avenue at 4:15 p.m.; Beck's Market on Emerson Street at 4:25; Forsyth Park on Lucas Avenue at 4:35; Babcock's Dairy on Hurley Avenue at 4:45 p.m.; Bull Market at Hurley and Washington Avenues at 4:55 p.m.; Schwenk's Bakery on Foxhall Avenue at 5:20, and Forst Market at Clifton Avenue and Stephan Street at 5:30 p.m.

All senior citizens of the community are invited to attend this party free of charge. The entertainment will be provided by an eight-piece orchestra under the direction of Wendell (Speed) Scherer, who is coming out of retirement to play for this cause. He is a great benefactor in any event that is beneficial to the senior citizens. The orchestra is provided by Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, as part of the transcription fund.

List Entertainers

During the evening Harriet Nussbaum and Dick Scherer will render solos appropriate for the occasion. Pete Mathews, Tony Pizzarelli and Charlie Cole will entertain as a banjo trio. All of the entertainers are well known to area residents and have made numerous appearances at events conducted by local organizations.

Yosman said door prizes will be offered and the program will consist of other entertainment. The sponsoring groups have invited all senior citizens of the community to attend the event and participate in the supper and enjoy the entertainment.

Buses will pick up the senior citizens at the locations specified and return them to those points after the party.

Walter Thayer Is Appointed To NY Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has named two corporation presidents, an adviser to New York City's mayor and an aide to the Democratic Assembly speaker to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

The appointments were confirmed early today by the Senate. The agency was created last year to oversee improvement of mass-transit facilities in the New York City area. Members are paid $150 a day while on official business, up to $15,000 a year.

The appointees, announced Friday, and their terms: Walter N. Thayer of Rye, president of Whitney Communications Corp., to June 30, 1971; Leonard Braun of Halesite, president of Piping Rock Petroleum Co. Inc., to June 30, 1969; Donald H. Elliott, Manhattan chairman of the New York City Planning Commission, to June 30, 1970, and Harold L. Fisher of Brooklyn, legal counsel to Speaker Anthony J. Travia, to June 30, 1972.

Rockefeller's office said Elliott and Thayer were recommended by Mayor John V. Lindsay, who has the authority to select two appointees.

Democratic Club Meeting Tonight

The Ulster County Democratic Women's Club will meet tonight at 8 instead of the regular Tuesday night meeting. It will be held at the YWCA on 209 Clinton Avenue, this city.

Joseph Epstein, Commissioner, Board of Elections, will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Robert Gorsline, club president, will be hostess. All members and prospective members are urged to attend. A penny social will be held Wednesday, June 8.

Cooking Tips

Vary menus with a variety of breads: whole wheat, French, Italian, rye, protein, raisin and pumpernickel. Alternate with rolls and biscuits of all kinds, cooked, uncooked and ready to serve.

Split the stems of asparagus up to but not through the tip for quicker cooking.

Fatless Lamb Stew

Cook lamb for stew the day before using. When cooked, separate lamb from liquid. Refrigerate both. The next day lift the fat can be lifted off easily.

Democratic Club Meeting Tonight

The Ulster County Democratic Women's Club will meet tonight at 8 instead of the regular Tuesday night meeting. It will be held at the YWCA on 209 Clinton Avenue, this city.

Joseph Epstein, Commissioner, Board of Elections, will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Robert Gorsline, club president, will be hostess. All members and prospective members are urged to attend. A penny social will be held Wednesday, June 8.

Cooking Tips

Vary menus with a variety of breads; whole wheat, French, Italian, rye, protein, raisin and pumpernickel. Alternate with rolls and biscuits of all kinds, cooked, uncooked and ready to serve.

Split the stems of asparagus up to but not through the tip for quicker cooking.

Fatless Lamb Stew

Cook lamb for stew the day before using. When cooked, separate lamb from liquid. Refrigerate both. The next day all the fat can be lifted off easily.

Ulster Garden Club Meeting Held

The speaker at the regular meeting of the Ulster Garden Club held May 21 at the home of Mrs. Sen. Bernstein, was Fred B. Manichee of Craigville, Mass., well-known lecturer. His subject was "Our State Flowers—and How They Were Picked."

Behind the selection of each flower so honored, in New York's case the rose, there is a human interest story of politics, determination and, at times, humor.

In speaking about wild flowers, Mr. Manichee added a plea for conservation. "Most of them need conserving and every one of us can help conserve them."

Elizabeth Russett Is Bride-Elect

E. Michael Russett of Ellenville announces the engagement of his sister, Elizabeth Marie, to Thomas W. Fluhr, a resident of Thompson Ridge, New York. Miss Russett is an administrative assistant at the Roscoe office of the New York City Board of Water Supply. Mr. Fluhr, an engineering geologist and author, maintains an active consulting practice in the Americas and abroad.

Miss Russett, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas G. Russett, is a descendant of the Rev. Romanus Teller, a Dutch Reformed clergyman, and of Dr. Harris Kiersted, a physician and surgeon in colonial New Amsterdam in the 17th century. She is also the descendant of Ruelof Janis, whose grant of land was leased to Trinity Episcopal Church in Manhattan.

The wedding will take place at 11 a.m. on Saturday, June 29, in St. Mary and St. Andrew Church, Ellenville.

ART SHOW TODAY — The Ulster County Art Association is holding a sidewalk art show today at the Old Dutch Church on Wall Street, Kingston. The show will be on exhibit until 4 p.m. With some of the paintings are (L-R) Mrs. Clair Shaffer, secretary of the Association; Mrs. Alexander McKittrick, president; and Mrs. Raymond Bonestell, publicity chairman. All types of paintings are being shown and many will be available for sale. (Freeman photo by Krul).

75 Attend RFK Opening

"Sen. Robert F. Kennedy deals more in facts and less in baloney," said Dutchess County Democratic Chairman George Whelan, speaking at last night's opening of RFK headquarters in Kingston.

Whelan appeared with Roger Mabie, minority leader of the county legislature and Hillary Masters, Columbia County novelist, all of whom are delegate candidates to the Democratic National Convention. Alternates Anthony Yerkovitch of Cementon and Ed Stoeckler of Ellenville attended.

Alderman-at-large T. Robert Gallo welcomed the gathering of more than 75 persons in behalf of Mayor Raymond Garaghan.

Dead Driver Fell Asleep

State police said Friday afternoon that Kenneth George Judd, 22, of Deer Park, L. I., and South Glens Falls, who was killed in a traffic accident on the Thruway six miles south of Catskill, apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

Judd, a member of the Merchant Marine, was a graduate of the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point and had been serving as an assistant engineer officer on a ship. He was fatally injured shortly after 8 a.m. yesterday when his automobile crashed through guard rails and into a bridge abutment.

BGI Investigator Joseph Valicenti of Leeds and Trooper Michael Stapleton of Troop T investigated the fatality.

Rocky Gives Travia Praise

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — In a brief, sentiment-filled tribute in the Assembly chamber, Gov. Rockefeller wished Anthony J. Travia the same success with a judge's gavel that he has enjoyed with the speaker's gavel. The Republican governor made a rare appearance before the Assembly Friday night to praise the outgoing speaker, a Democrat, as a man who dedicated himself "not only to his constituents, but to the interests of the people of this state."

Travia has been named a judge in the federal court. Although an opposition leader, Travia "has given the kind of cooperation—across party lines—that has made our state great," Rockefeller said. "I hope your gavel is as strong and that you wield it with the same strength."

Travia then used his speaker's gavel to try to end prolonged applause from Assembly members.

The speaker at the regular meeting of the Ulster Garden Club held May 21 at the home of Mrs. Sen. Bernstein, was Fred B. Manchee of Craigville, Mass., well-known lecturer. His subject was "Our State Flowers—and How They Were Picked."

Behind the selection of each flower so honored, in New York's case the rose, there is a human interest story of politics, determination and, at times, humor.

In speaking about wild flowers, Mr. Manchee added a plea for conservation. "Most of them need conserving and every one of us can help conserve them."

Elizabeth Russett Is Bride-Elect

E. Michael Russett of Ellenville announces the engagement of his sister, Elizabeth Marie, to Thomas W. Fluhr, a resident of Thompson Ridge, New York.

Miss Russett is an administrative assistant at the Roscoe office of the New York City Board of Water Supply. Mr. Fluhr, an engineering geologist and author, maintains an active consulting practice in the Americas and abroad.

Miss Russett, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas G. Russett, is a descendant of the Rev. Romanus Teller, a Dutch Reformed clergyman, and of Dr. Harris Kiersted, a physician and surgeon in colonial New Amsterdam in the 17th century. She is also the descendant of Roelof Janis, whose grant of land was leased to Trinity Episcopal Church in Manhattan.

The wedding will take place at 11 a. m. on Saturday, June 29, in St. Mary and St. Andrew Church, Ellenville.

Dead Driver Fell Asleep

State police said Friday afternoon that Kenneth George Judd, 22, of Deer Park, L. I., and South Glens Falls, who was killed in a traffic accident on the Thruway six miles south of Catskill, apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

Judd, a member of the Merchant Marine, was a graduate of the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point and had been serving as an assistant engineer officer on a ship. He was fatally injured shortly after 8 a. m. yesterday when his automobile crashed through guard rails and into a bridge abutment.

BCI Investigator Joseph Valicenti of Leeds and Trooper Michael Stapleton of Troop 1 investigated the fatality.

Rocky Gives Travia Praise

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — In a brief, sentiment-filled tribute in the Assembly chamber, Gov. Rockefeller wished Anthony J. Travia the same success with a judge's gavel that he has enjoyed with the speaker's gavel. The Republican governor made a rare appearance before the Assembly Friday night to praise the outgoing speaker, a Democrat, as a man who dedicated himself "not only to his constituents, but to the interests of the people of this state."

Travia has been named a judge in the federal court.

Although an opposition leader, Travia "has given the kind of cooperation—across party lines—that has made our state great," Rockefeller said. "I hope your gavel is as strong and that you wield it with the same strength."

Travia then used his speaker's gavel to try to end prolonged applause from Assembly

Killed in Collision

ALBION, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Florence Clark, 69, of the Orleans County community of Carlton, has been killed in the collision of her automobile and another car.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Clark was killed late Friday on Route 98 about two miles north of here.

Mrs. Clark lived on Route 93.

Foster May Be Poorer, But He's the Light Heavy Champ

By WILLIAM VERIGAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Foster is poorer by $21,000 today, but he doesn't mind because that was the price of winning the light heavyweight title from old soldier Dick Tiger.

Foster crashed through the Biafran's crouching defense with a right uppercut and left hook to knock out Tiger for the first time in 77 pro bouts in the fourth round Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

The 6-foot-3 1/2 inch challenger from Washington, D.C., opened the first round by spearing Tiger with his long left, but late in the round, Tiger suddenly made Foster wince from a series of punches to the body.

That was the only time the crowd of 11,547 had much chance to cheer for the 38-year-old Tiger, a sentimental favorite but a 12-5 underdog in the betting.

"When he started going for the body, he left himself wide open for those uppercuts and that left hook that finished him," said the newly-crowned 29-year-old champion, who ran his record to 30 victories against four losses. "I knew it was only a matter of time."

After spearing away contentedly at Tiger for the next two rounds and piling up points on the scorecards, Foster unleashed a combination in the fourth round that staggered Tiger and then finished him off with a snaking left hook.

Tiger, knocked down only once before during his career, sat dumbly on the canvas as Referee Mark Conn tolled 10. As soon as the count was finished, Foster's well wishers rushed for the ring and Tiger's gave a standing ovation as the old warrior left the ring.

"Now I know how those guys felt that I knocked out," said the squatly Tiger, smiling even in defeat. "His long reach bothered me, but he says he'll give me a rematch. If he will, I'd like to fight him again."

It was a 16th loss against 58 wins and three draws for Tiger, who held the middleweight title twice before losing it the final time to Emile Griffith in 1966. Although many had considered him washed up after the loss, Tiger came back to win the lightweight crown from Jose Torres and successfully defended it against Torres and Roger Rouse.

He seemed to be outclassed against the giant Foster, however, Foster had an eight-inch advantage in reach and was 7 1/2 inches taller. He also had a reputation as a puncher, making Tiger his 24th kayo victim.

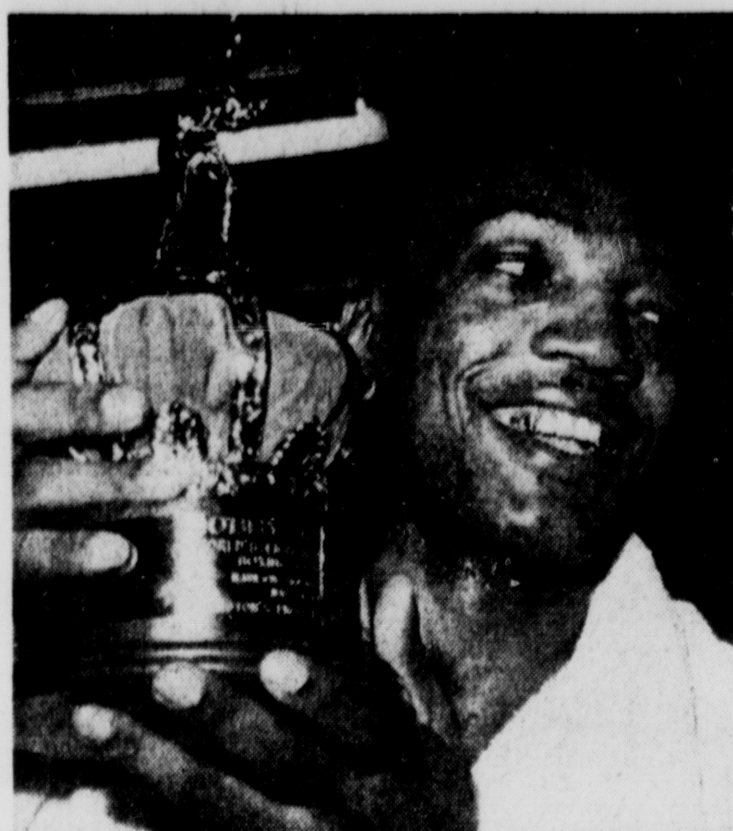

Although Foster was given 60 per cent of the receipts, he lost $21,000 to the evening's work. The net receipts, including television revenue, amounted to $132,000, meaning that Foster was given about $79,000. But to get the bout, he had to guarantee Tiger $100,000, and the difference will have to come out of his financial backer's pocket.

"I been fighting too long without making much money," said Foster, a father of four. "But it don't bother me now because I get the big share next time."

He said that he hoped his first defense would be against Eddie "Bossman" Jones, who probably will move up to the No. 1 contender spot. "He's been talking too much," said Foster about Jones.

"Tiger's a nice guy," said Foster, "and he's been fair to me. I'll give him a second chance because he gave me a chance."

Whether Tiger ever comes back to this country from embattled Biafra to fight for the title again, however, has to be a longshot at best.

Maxvill's Homer 'Stirs' Cardinals

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Busch Memorial Stadium, a magnificent two-year-old sports palace, is on shaky ground now that Dal Maxvill is knocking down fences.

Maxvill, the slick fielding, non-hitting shortstop for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, began demolition proceedings Friday night when for only the second time in his major league career he hit a fair ball into the seats. The last stadium in which he did that didn't last more than a year.

"When I hit that first one in the Polo Grounds," recalled Maxvill with impish glee, "they tore the park down."

Maxvill's third career homer (the second was an inside-the-park job last season) capped the biggest display of power by the Cards since the first week of the season as St. Louis slugged three homers and emerged from a long scoring drought with a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Curt Flood began the blasting with a two-run shot in the first and Johnny Edwards and Maxvill connected for successive homers in the seventh. It marked the first game in which the Cards have hit three homers since April 14 and the first game in which they have scored as many as five runs since May 4.

San Francisco remained a game ahead of the Cards by beating Chicago 4-2. Los Angeles topped Houston 9-7 in 10. Pittsburgh pounded Cincinnati 8-5 and Atlanta defeated New York 4-2.

Maxvill's home run was a shock to everyone on the Cards, especially his understudy, Dick Schofield, who fell off the bench at the sight of the blast.

Mays Passes Speaker

Willie Mays moved into sole possession of fourth place on the all-time total bases list, breaking a tie with Tris Speaker, by stroking a run-scoring single in the first inning and Juan Marichal became the major leagues' first seven-game winner as the Giants won their fourth straight game. Mays also singled in the ninth to run his career total bases to 5,103.

Bob Bailey became the Dodger hero for the second successive day as he blasted a three-run homer to highlight a five-run 10th inning and spark Los Angeles to its fourth straight triumph. Bailey, whose 11th-inning single gave the Dodgers a 3-2 win over St. Louis Thursday, socked his homer off Don Wilson with two on and two out and the score tied 4-4.

The Pirates hammered out 10 hits, including a two-run homer by Roberto Clemente, to beat the Reds as relief ace Ron Kline pitched a 2-3 scoreless innings. Kline extended his string of scoreless innings to 21 over a seven-game span. Johnny Bench hit a two-run homer for the Reds in the fourth.

Lanky Ron Reed, a former pro basketball player, posted his sixth victory without a defeat in besting the Mets' rookie sensation Nolan Ryan with relief help from Jim Britton in the ninth.

Maxvill's third career homer (the second was an inside-the-park job last season) capped the biggest display of power by the Cards since the first week of the season as St. Louis slugged three homers and emerged from a long scoring drought with a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Yaz Not in 'Groove' For MVP Defense

By VITO STELLINO

Carl Yastrzemski's homers of a year ago were many and memorable.

Now his homers are few and forgettable.

Yastrzemski, still trying to find the "groove" which made his last year's Most Valuable Player and triple crown winner, hit his first homer in five weeks Friday night to start the Boston Red Sox on the way to a 9-7 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

But it had been so long between homers for Yastrzemski that he couldn't remember the last one.

"I can't remember exactly when I hit my last homer," he said. "My swing hasn't been in the groove but I'm getting there now. That shot felt pretty good. The homers haven't been coming because I haven't been swinging so good but I think I'm coming along now."

For the record, Yastrzemski's last homer came on April 17th against Cisco Carlos of the Chicago White Sox. That was his fourth homer and Yastrzemski, who had 44 a year ago while leading the Red Sox to the pennant in that dramatic finish, finally got his fifth Friday night in the first inning off Dave Boswell with a man on.

Many area bowlers would rather forget the 1967-68 season. It was not a vintage year for high scores. Yet, despite the grumbling, griping and protests we heard through the long season about "tough conditions," there were recorded eighteen "600" sets by women and fourteen "700" triples by men.

Dick Howard, the all-time great and part time bowling pundit, and Karen Woodvine shared high scoring honors.

Ralph Longendyke embellished a 712 series with the campaign's only perfect 300 score.

Howard, a cinch for the Hall of Fame, unloaded a spectacular 731 in the Summit Classic at Sangi's and a 299 solo in the Catskill Major. Mrs. Woodvine scored a double with the high series of 644 and a 267 single, which shared first place with Ora Boughton and Joan Smith. In the men's department, Joe Fisher fired a 298 in the Sunday Mixer.

With four "600" triples to her credit, the highest at 615, Mrs. Gloria Allen of Woodstock was to rate as the No. 1 woman bowler of the season. She is the wife of Fred Allen, the reformed golfer and co-proprietor of Woodstock Lanes. While Fred was easily retaining his title as the world's greatest open bowler, Gloria went out and made the bowling headlines for the family. Ora Boughton's 637 was a solid second and Annaliese Kime of Saugerties fired a 258 solo.

Kickers Point For Loop Title

Kingston Sport Club Kickers get two shots at their first League Division championship in the German-American Soccer Association Sunday.

A tie with Poughkeepsie Blue-Whites at Germania Field in Poughkeepsie would assure Manager Bob Graves' Kickers of nothing worse than a tie with Bavarian of New York. A victory gives the title to Kingston outright.

While Kingston is battling Poughkeepsie, the Bavarians host the same Yankees team that knocked White Plains out of the race last week. Bavarians must win, or else. Going into Sunday's finale, the top three line up like this:

Many area bowlers would rather forget the 1967-68 season. It was not a vintage year for high scores. Yet, despite the grumbling, griping and protests we heard through the long season about "tough conditions," there were recorded eighteen "600" sets by women and fourteen "700" triples by men.

Dick Howard, the all-time great and part time bowling pundit, and Karen Woodvine, shared high scoring honors. Gloria Allen rolls four "600" series.

Ralph Longendyke embellished a 712 series with the campaign's only perfect 300 score.

Howard, a cinch for the Hall of Fame, unloaded a spectacular 751 in the Summit Classic at Sangi's and a 299 solo in the Catskill Major. Mrs. Woodvine scored a double with the high series of 644 and a 267 single, which shared first place with Ora Boughton and Joan Smith.

In the men's department, Joe Fisher fired a 298 in the Sun-shared high scoring honors.

GLORIA ALLEN ROLLS FOUR "600" SERIES

With four "600" triples to her credit, the highest at 615, Mrs. Gloria Allen of Woodstock has made the bowling headlines for the season. She is the wife of Fred Allen, the reformed golfer and co-proprietor of Woodstock Lanes. While Fred was easily retaining his title as the world's greatest open bowler, Gloria went out and made the bowling headlines for the family. Ora Boughton's 637 was a solid second and Annaliese Kime of Saugerties fired a 258 solo.

Maxvill's Homer 'Stirs' Cardinals

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Busch Memorial Stadium, a magnificent two-year-old sports palace, is on shaky ground now that Dal Maxvill is knocking down fences.

Maxvill, the slick fielding, non-hitting shortstop for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, began demolition proceedings Friday night when for the second time in his major league career he hit a fair ball into the seats. The last stadium in which he did that didn't last more than a year.

"When I hit that first one in the Polo Grounds," recalled Maxvill with impish glee, "they tore the park down."

Maxvill's third career homer (the second was an inside-the-park job last season) capped the biggest display of power by the Cards since the first week of the season as St. Louis slugged three homers and emerged from a long scoring drought with a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Flood Begins Attack

Curt Flood began the blasting with a two-run shot in the first and Johnny Edwards and Maxvill connected for successive homers in the seventh. It marked the first game in which the Cards have hit three homers since April 14 and the first game in which they have scored as many as five runs since May 4.

San Francisco remained a game ahead of the Cards by beating Chicago 4-2. Los Angeles topped Houston 9-7 in 10. Pittsburgh pounded Cincinnati 8-5 and Atlanta defeated New York 4-2.

Maxvill's home run was a shock to everyone on the Cards, especially his understudy, Dick Schofield, who fell off the bench at the sight of the blast.

Mays Passes Speaker

Willie Mays moved into sole possession of fourth place on the all-time total bases list, breaking a tie with Tris Speaker, by stroking a run-scoring single in the first inning and Juan Marical became the major leagues' first seven game winner as the Giants won their fourth straight game. Mays also singled in the ninth to run his career total bases to 5,103.

Bob Bailey became the Dodger hero for the second successive day as he blasted a three-run homer to highlight a five-run 10th inning and spark Los Angeles to its fourth straight triumph. Bailey, whose 11th-inning single gave the Dodgers a 3-2 win over St. Louis Thursday, soaked his homer off Don Wilson with two on and two out and the score tied 4-4.

The Pirates hammered out 10 hits, including a two-run homer by Roberto Clemente, to beat the Reds as relief ace Ron Kline pitched a 2-3 scoreless innings. Kline extended his string of scoreless innings to 21 over a seven game span. Johnny Bench hit a two-run homer for the Reds in the fourth.

Lanky Ron Reed, a former pro basketball player, posted his sixth victory without a defeat in besting the Mets' rookie sensation Nolan Ryan with relief help from Jim Britton in the ninth.

Ray's Seeks Second HVSL Win Against Red Whites

Ray's Chevrolet of Kingston, batting 1-1 in the Hudson Valley Softball League, have called on Richie Hoffman to stop Cliff Ong and the Poughkeepsie Red Whites' (2-0) Sunday at Pleasant Valley.

Ong happens to be one of the finest softball pitchers in the valley, but Hoffman's first two outings have been impressive. Manager Ron Secreto of Ray's is confident, "We have a good chance to beat them," he says.

The teams are scheduled to play two games—the regular league set at 2:30 p.m., followed by an exhibition contest. George Norton will pitch that one.

Green Haven Prison (2-0) hosts the Stewart AFB Panthers, who are looking for their first win after two setbacks.

By WILLIAM VERIGAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Foster is poorer by $21,000 today, but he doesn't mind because that was the price of winning the light heavyweight title from old soldier Dick Tiger.

Foster crashed through the Biazan's crouching defense with a right uppercut and left hook to knock out Tiger for the first time in 77 pro bouts in the fourth round Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

The 6-foot 3 1/2 inch challenger from Washington, D.C., opened the first round by spearing Tiger with his long left, but late in the round, Tiger suddenly made Foster wince from a series of punches to the body.

That was the only time the crowd of 11,547 had much chance to cheer for the 38-year-old Tiger, a sentimental favorite but a 12-5 underdog in the betting.

"When he started going for the body, he left himself wide open for those uppercuts and that left hook that finished him," said the newly-crowned 29-year-old champion, who ran his record to 30 victories against four losses. "I knew it was only a matter of time."

After spearing away contentedly at Tiger for the next two rounds and piling up points on the scorecards, Foster unleashed a combination in the fourth round that staggered Tiger and then finished him off with a snaking left hook.

Tiger, knocked down only once before during his career, sat dumbly on the canvas as Referee Mark Conlon tolled 10. As soon as the count was finished, Foster's well wishers rushed for the ring and Tiger's gave a standing ovation as the old warrior left the ring.

"Now I know how those guys felt that I knocked out," said the squatty Tiger, smiling even in defeat. "His long reach bothered me, but he says he'll give me a rematch. If he will, I'd like to fight him again."

It was a 16th loss against 58 wins and three draws for Tiger, who held the middleweight title twice before losing it the final time to Emile Griffith in 1966. Although many had considered him washed up after the loss, Tiger came back to win the lightweight crown from Jose Torres and successfully defended it against Torres and Roger Rouse.

He seemed to be outclassed against the giant Foster, however. Foster had an eight-inch advantage in reach and was 7 1/2 inches taller. He also had a reputation as a puncher, making Tiger his 24th kayo victim.

Although Foster was given 60 per cent of the receipts, he lost $21,000 for the evening's work. The net receipts, including television revenue, amounted to $132,000, meaning that Foster was given about $79,000. But to get the bout, he had to guarantee Tiger $100,000, and the difference will have to come out of his financial backer's pockets.

"I been fighting too long without making much money," said Foster, a father of four, "But it don't bother me now because I get the big share next time."

He said that he hoped his first defense would be against Eddie "Bossman" Jones, who probably will move up to the No. 1 contender spot. "He's been talking too much," said Foster about Jones.

"Tiger's a nice guy," said Foster "and he's been fair to me. I'll give him a second chance because he gave me a chance."

Whether Tiger ever comes back to this country from embattled Biafra to fight for the title again, however, has to be a longshot at best.

Yaz Not in 'Groove' For MVP Defense

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski's homers of a year ago were many and memorable.

Now his homers are few and forgettable.

Yastrzemski, still trying to find the "groove" which made his last year's Most Valuable Player and triple crown winner, hit his first homer in five weeks Friday night to start the Boston Red Sox on the way to a 9-7 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

But it had been so long between homers for Yastrzemski that he couldn't remember the last one.

"I can't remember exactly when I hit my last homer," he said. "My swing hasn't been in the groove but I'm getting there now. That shot felt pretty good. The homers haven't been coming because I haven't been swinging so good but I think I'm coming along now."

For the record, Yastrzemski's last homer came on April 17th against Cisco Carlos of the Chicago White Sox. That was his fourth homer and Yastrzemski, who had 44 a year ago while leading the Red Sox to the pennant in that dramatic finish, finally got his fifth Friday night in the first inning off Dave Boswell with a man on.

Birds Win Two

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore swept a doubleheader from Washington 5-3 and 3-2. New York edged Chicago 1-0 in 13 innings. California clipped Cleveland 2-1 and Detroit and Oakland played to a 2-2 tie in a game called after seven innings because of rain.

Baltimore's sweep of Washington moved the Orioles into a tie for second place with Cleveland, two games behind Detroit. In the first game, Dave McNally went 7 1/3 innings but needed relief help from both Eddie Watt and Pete Richter to even his record at 4-4. Dave Johnson's two-run single in the fifth inning put the Orioles ahead 5-0 and proved to be the difference. In the second game, pinch-hitter Elrod Hendricks tagged reliever Dave Baldwin for a leadoff homer in the ninth inning to snap a 2-2 tie. Baltimore had tied the game in the eighth on Johnson's one-out, run scoring double.

The White Sox and Yankees, equally feeble at the plate, played one of their typical games in which neither team was able to score for 12 innings. The Yankees finally won it, typically, on an error. After Bobby Cox doubled, Sandy Alomar, moved to third base in the 11th inning, fielded Horace Clarke's bunt single and threw it wildly to score Cox.

George Brunet won his third straight game to boost his record to 5-3 by beating the Indians on a four-hitter. The Angels got a run in the fourth on Rick Reichardt's run-scoring single and the deciding run in the seventh on Bobby Knoop's single.

Bill Freehan and Willie Horton hit back-to-back homers for the Tigers in the second but Oakland tied it with single runs in the fourth and the fifth as Earl Wilson barked across one run and Reggie Jackson singled across the other. The game ended in a tie when rain halted play after seven innings.

Revised Format Planned for Herdegen Memorial

The 1968 Herdegen Memorial golf tournament will be played under a revised format this year, Charles J. Tiano, tournament founder and chairman since its inception, announced today.

The tournament will be reduced from 72 holes of medal play to 36. Club qualifying quotas have been abolished and 36 of the best players in the county will be invited to participate.

Tournament dates are Saturday, June 15, at Wiltwyck

Country Club and Sunday, June 16, at The Twaalfskill Club. Automatic invitations are extended to six of the past seven champions and players who finished in the money—top 12—in the 1967 event.

The champions list includes Leon Randall, five-time winner and defending champion; Bill Van Aken, Clarence (Dubby) Raiche, Harvey Bostic, Rick Barthel and George Hughes. William (Buzzy) Costello, the 1936 champion, is no longer in the area. Players must have a bonafide Ulster County residency to be eligible. Invited by virtue of having placed in the top 12 last year, champions excluded, are Harold Van Aken, Bill Odenale, Bob Costello, Form Coughlin, Jordan Pauker, Doug Sheppard, Bill McCullen and Charles J. Turk.

Two top college swingers of the current season—David Blakeley of Ulster County Community College and Mike Mostransky of State University College of New Paltz—have received invitations. Four top players on Kingston

High's undefeated DUSO League golf champions are also on the invitation list. They are Ed Byman, Werner Kolln, Arnie Shien-vold and Joe Bostic.

A screening committee headed by Tiano will extend the additional invitation to bring the field up to 36 players. There will be no qualifying round and all players play 36 holes.

Prizes will be awarded to the top 12 finishers as in the past. The winner is recognized as mounting player pressure on Ulster County amateur champion and receives the traditional Herdegen jacket and trophy. Merchandise prizes go to the 11 runners-up.

Deadline for accepting invitations is June 1. If the invitations are not picked up by deadline, the committee will pick from a reserve list to bring the field up to 36.

The tournament committee gave several reasons for revising the Herdegen format: mounting player pressure on area golf clubs, a desire to assemble a quality field and dissatisfaction with the quota system used the past few years.

"The quota system simply didn't work," Tiano said. "In some areas it had degenerated into a farce and was qualifying players who simply didn't belong in the Herdegen. The new method insures a field of players with proven credentials and should result in a higher quality tournament."

The tournament chairman said he was reluctant to reduce the distance to 36 holes, but felt it was advisable under present circumstances.

"All of the area clubs are under heavy player pressure on weekends," he said, "and the committee felt it would be better to limit play so as to ask clubs for use of their facilities only in alternate years."

"While we're using Wiltwyck and Twaalfskill for openers," he went on, "we plan to move the Herdegen around to Woodstock, Shawangunk, the new Sawyerkill at Saugerties and other available clubs."

"Beyond the automatic list and high school stars, the committee will lean on past performance in the Herdegen and qualified newcomers in the area," he concluded.

Army Opens Ticket Sale For 1968 Home Contests

WEST POINT—A block of season's tickets for Army's five home football games this fall will cost $26, Col. Jerry G. Capka, director of athletics, has announced.

The cadet home schedule for the fall opens Sept. 21 with the Citadel. Other games include Vanderbilt on Sept. 28, California on Oct. 12, Duke on Oct. 26 and Boston College on Nov. 9. The California game has been designated as homecoming.

Application blanks to priority season ticket holders, those persons who purchased season tickets last year, are currently being mailed. Deadline for renewal is Friday, July 5. After that date, the priority list will be revised and numbers will be assigned to new purchasers.

Season ticket holders will be given the same seat for all five games and a parking permit in one of the lots close to Michie Stadium. In addition the right to purchase one Army-Navy game ticket for each season ticket bought will again be extended.

Single game prices for the home schedule will be $5 for the Citadel game and $6 for the other four. The Navy game price will again be $8.50.

Burton Guides Second Choice Sharp Cat to Impressive Win

MONTICELLO — Al Burton, conceded to be one of the masters in handling trotters, showed his skill last night at Monticello Raceway as he had to brush Sharp Cat twice to win the $3,000 featured trot in a quick 2:05.4.

Sharp Cat, the second favorite in the eight horse field at 3-1, was brushed by Burton at the half-mile mark and again in the final turn. It paid off as he overtook leader Zinnia Hanover to win going away by three lengths.

Leaving from the four-hole in the brown four-year-old son of Sharpshooter and Kitty S. Volo, was the crowd's second choice behind 7-5 favorite, Be Special, handled by Ken Heenev.

Zinnia Hanover moved quickly out from and led by a length and a half at the quarter pole. The time recorded by Zinnia Hanover, with Eldon Harner totting the whip, was a blazing 30.1.

At that quarter mark, the eventual winner was sitting sixth. Burton let Sharp Cat have his head around the turn the first time around, but was bumped outside by Be Special, forcing Sharp Cat to go half-way out on the track.

Burton guided the stallion back towards the rail and sat second on the outside as the half went in 1:03.3. It was the same, Zinnia on the rail, Sharp Cat, outside, at the three-quarter, a point they reached in 1:34.2.

On the turn, Burton laid the whip to Sharp Cat, and the stallion responded to set a new lifetime mark as he swiftly left the field behind.

Sharp Cat returned mutuels of $8.60, $4.20 and $2.80. Prilly, post number eight, was second despite breaking slightly before the start, and paid $11.20 and $4.00 for place while Zinnia Hanover ($5) was worth $2.60 for show.

Frank Browne and Rahol Spencer hooked up to form a $36.60 daily double, with Browne's Live Gay Copping the first race and Spencer piloting home Chapel Him in the second. The combination was 6-2.

The fifth race Perfecta of Will Bell (7) and Rutin's Dream (6), returned a hefty $286.00.

The Greco Brothers Stable of Glasco picked up the winners share of the $1250 sixth race purse as Success Saint, owned by that stable and driven by George Gilmour, copped the sixth race in 2:06.2.

Duham Tunnel of Kingston had his horse, Wagner Hanover, finish in the show position in the ninth.

Werblin Sounds Off, 'Am Most Unhappy'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sonny Werblin, the energetic promoter who lost out as president of the New York Jets in a power squeeze by his four partners, said Friday night that he didn't believe "a committee can run a team."

"They wanted a committee rule," said Werblin, referring to the foursome which bought his 23.4 per cent interest in the Jets for $1,638,000 this week. "In other words, if we were going to sign a ball player they wanted us all to sit down and discuss it."

"I don't believe in working that way," said Werblin. "If a dress designer tried to put out a cloth a committee picked, he'd never get it to the consumer. I am most unhappy about the way events turned out."

Werblin had a sarcastic comment when asked about his partners' complaint that they were left out of the picture while Sonny made the operation of the Jets a one-man show.

"They're essentially right

Revised Format Planned for Herdegen Memorial

The 1968 Herdegen Memorial golf tournament will be played under a revised format this year, Charles J. Tiano, tournament founder and chairman since its inception, announced today.

The tournament will be reduced from 72 holes of medal play to 36. Club qualifying quotas have been abolished and 36 of the best players in the county will be invited to participate.

Tournament dates are Saturday, June 15, at Wiltwyck Country Club and Sunday, June 16, at The Twaalfskill Club.

Automatic invitations are extended to six of the past seven champions and players who finished in the money—top 12—in the 1967 event.

The champions list includes Leon Randall, five-time winner and defending champion; Bill Van Aken, Clarence (Dubby) Raiche, Harvey Bostic, Rick Barthel and George Hughes.

William (Buzzy) Costello, the 1936 champion, is no longer in the area. Players must have a bonafide Ulster County residency to be eligible.

Invited by virtue of having placed in the top 12 last year, champions excluded, are Harold Van Aken, Bill Odeneal, Bob Costello, Doug Coughlin, Jordan Pauker, Doug Sheppard, Jim McCullen and Charles J. Turck.

Two top college swingers of the current season—David Blake of Ulster County Community College and Mike Mostrowsky of State University College of New Paltz—have received invitations.

Four top players on Kingston

High's undefeated DUSO League golf champions are also on the invitation list. They are Ed Byman, Werner Kollin, Arnie Shien-vold and Joe Bostic.

A screening committee headed by Tiano will extend the additional invitation to bring the field up to 36 players. There will be no qualifying round and all players play 36 holes.

Prizes will be awarded to the top 12 finishers as in the past. The winner is recognized as Ulster County amateur chamption and receives the traditional Herdegen jacket and trophy. Merchandise prizes go to the 11 runners-up.

Deadline for accepting invitations is June 1. If the invitations are not picked up by deadline, the committee will pick from a reserve list to bring the field up to 36.

The tournament committee gave several reasons for revising the Herdegen format: mounting player pressure on area golf clubs, a desire to as-after Cox doubled to right, leading off the 13th. Charley Smith, batting for relief pitcher Joe Verbanic, was walked intentionally and Gene Michael ran for him. Clarke then dropped a perfect bunt down the third base line which Alomar fielded and threw widely past first base, allowing Cox to score the winning run.

Alomar had been shifted from second to third for defensive purposes in the 11th inning.

Verbanic, who arrived in time for the game after a stint with a National Guard unit in Syracuse, N.Y., pitched 2 2/3 innings of one-hit ball to even his record at 2-2.

Wilbur Wood, victim of the erratic support, entered the game at the start of the 12th and failed to retire a batter in the 13th as he lost his second game in three decisions.

Starters Stan Bahnsen and Tommy John hooked up in a brilliant scoreless duel. Hoyt Wilhelm relieved in the 10th, making his 877th career appearance just 29 short of Cy Young's major league record.

Reed, a 6-foot-6 right-hander, was en route to his first major league shutout when Kevin Collins led off the ninth with a walk. Art Shamsky popped up but Ron Swoboda singled and Reed was replaced by Britton.

Werblin Sounds Off, 'Am Most Unhappy'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sonny Werblin, the energetic promoter who lost out as president of the New York Jets in a power squeeze by his four partners, said Friday night that he didn't believe "a committee can run a team."

"They wanted a committee rule," said Werblin, referring to the foursome which bought his 23.4 per cent interest in the Jets for $1,638,000 this week. "In other words, if we were going to sign a ball player they wanted us all to sit down and discuss it."

"I don't believe in working that way," said Werblin. "If a dress designer tried to put out a cloth a committee picked, he'd never get it to the consumer. I am most unhappy about the way events turned out."

Werblin had a sarcastic comment when asked about his partners' complaint that they were left out of the picture while Sonny made the operation of the Jets a one-man show.

"They're essentially right

TO THE POLLS — Stepping up to the voting machine for the 1968-69 KHS student elections are successful candidates Debbie Snyder, corresponding secretary; Gary Matthews, vice president; Nancy Motzkin, treasurer and Nancy Rhymer, recording secretary. Unique in high school elections, the voting machine is owned by the student government which purchased it two years ago. It is used in all general elections at the school. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Vote Is Counted

Registration and voting by machine are becoming very much a part of student government elections in area high schools. And the campaigns for student office take on much of the flavor of the adult political world.

At Kingston High School, Student Council elections follow the usual format of nomination by petition; campaign hoopla directed by managers; speeches then voter registration and voting machine.

New Paltz High School follows much the same procedure with three days of intensive campaigning just prior to voting. Machines are used at New Paltz too. KHS is unique in its use of a student government owned machine. New Paltz uses machines set up by John Ashton of the Board of Elections.

Rondout Valley Central School adds a little glamor to its elections by including selection of the May Queen as part of the student balloting.

New Paltz — William Bond, president; Dave Mosconi, vice president; Betty Dodge, secretary; Linda Mazur, treasurer.

Rondout Valley — Keith Gorham, president; Al Auletta, vice president; Cindy Raymond, secretary and Jean Embree, treasurer.

Results of the May Queen vote will not be revealed until the crowning on moving up day, May 29. The six candidates for the honor are Bernice Barr, Cathy Mills, Kathy Connell, Fran Overton, Fran Black and Sandi Van Kleeck.

Hobbit's Whole Coffee House Gets Assist From Youthful Volunteers

Things are looking up for the Kingston Coffee House project.

At a steering committee meeting this week, it was revealed that more than $200 was pledged as a result of the WGHQ Radiothon. Also donated was a 60-watt amplifier.

Additional means of raising the necessary funds to insure opening of the teen center were discussed by the panel of planners. The committee looked with favor on securing the necessary equipment for operation of the coffee house.

Opening has been delayed from the end of this month to possibly the middle of next month. Machinery must be removed from the building at 73 Crown Street, a former dress factory, so that youth volunteers can completely redecorate the site in the coffee house motif.

When the Hobbit's Whole is ready for grand opening it is anticipated that a special reception will be arranged in advance for parents and friends as well as youth. When the operation is in full swing, performances by folk groups will take place Fridays and Saturdays 8 to 10 p. m. A cover charge will be paid by each person attending.

In attendance at the steering committee meeting were Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, co-chairman; Andrew Murphy, Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman, the Rev. David L. Bronson, the Rev. William A. Studwell, the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, the Rev.

COFFEE HOUSE CLEANUP

"Trying to make the Hobbit's Whole habitable, local teens pitch into cleanup chores at the 73 Crown Street site. At a recent "dump in" are Ilene Federman, Mary Kaune, Steve Sior, Mrs. Sharon Phillips and Tim Lackaye. The Kingston Coffee House, through the efforts of the young people and the current fund drive, is expected to open some time in June. (Freeman photo by Haines)

There's Gold in Them Thar Records — Collectors' Bag

By LEI

Those old singles — be they called old gold, oldies — but—goodies, moldy oldies, cobweb hits, hits from the past, or any of the various other names given to them by different listeners—are becoming literally worth their weight in gold—and not devalued gold, either. It seems that long after a disk is off the hit list, the best goes on, and there is somebody to buy it—and, sometimes, to pay premium prices. Surprisingly to some, even records that were never top-ten material continue selling after most people have forgotten them.

Why do the "goldies" sell? Probably for as many reasons as there are buyers. Some sentimentalists want a copy of "our song." Others are trying to round out a collection of Ray Charles or Nina Simone records. Some are in their mid-twenties, and think that they don't make hits like they used to ten years ago. Others notice that the goldies laid the groundwork for today's hits. After hearing Canned Heat and Mothers of Invention work a sound over, they go back to hear how Fats Domino, Chuck Berry, and Ivory Joe Hunter sounded doing the original (which often they had written.) There are kids too young to remember when Bill Haley was number-one-and-only, but they like how he sounds. And last, but far from least, is the old gold collector, who has made finding a rare one his thing, and who approaches it with much the same technique and verve as a stamp collector. Records, like stamps, can be regarded as an investment.

Where to mine for goldies? There are businesses which exist selling mint copies of old gold singles for scalper's rates—often over a dollar each. Record companies keep backlogs, but these, too, are expensive. (These channels report, incidentally, that the most golden goldie is "Louie, Louie" by the Kingsmen, which has sold 400,000 copies since falling from the charts.) One can buy albums of hit singles pal?

Compiled by record companies also, some in stereo. Many department stores have collections of goldies priced at about a quarter, but these are often unfortunately recent—many purists dislike hearing a record under five years old referred to as old gold. Some technically-minded gold fans tape old-gold shows off the radio, either not caring, or unaware, of the fact that it is not particularly legal.

Experienced gold collectors? They find their hits for dimes and nickles, at rummage sales, thrift shops, friends' attics, pawn shops and store closings. Get two old gold addicts together and they will spend all night swapping, and show up at school muzzy-headed the next morning triumphantly clutching that out-of-circulation hit by the Edsels.

If you go gold-mining, good luck! But not too good . . . If you find Bruce Channel's "Hey Baby," or the Joe Hinton recording of "Ain't It Funny" leave them there for us, huh, Others notice that the goldies laid the groundwork for today's hits. After hearing Canned Heat and Mothers of Invention work a sound over, they go back to compiled by record companies also, some in stereo. Many hear how Fats Domino, Chuck Berry, and Ivory Joe Hunter sounded doing the original (which often they had written). There are kids too young to remember when Bill Haley was number-one-and-only, but they like how he sounds. And last, but far from least, is the old gold collector, who has made finding a rare one his thing, and who approaches it with much the same technique and verve as a stamp collector. Records, like stamps, can be regarded as an investment.

Where to mine for goldies? There are businesses which exist selling mint copies of old gold singles for scalper's rates—often over a dollar each. Record companies keep backlogs, but these, too, are expensive. (These channels re-incidentally, that the most golden goldie is "Louie" by the Kingsmen, which has sold 400,000 copies since recording of "Ain't It Funny" leave them there for us, huh, falling from the charts.) One can buy albums of hit singles pal?

Dear Abby

Husband Needs to be Told

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What does a woman do when her husband won't keep his hands off her in public? Whenever George (not his real name) and I go out, he's forever slapping or pinching my behind, and he doesn't care who sees him. It is very embarrassing.

Also when we go visiting, he keeps at least one hand on or above my knee the entire time we are there. It has gotten so I am ashamed to visit our friends. When we go to a movie, it's just terrible. I have to keep beginning to read.

George and I have been married for 2 years now, and he has done this ever since we were married. I have tried to talk some sense into him, but he laughs it off and says I should be glad he finds me so desirable. I can't laugh it off. It's too embarrassing. What should I do?

DEAR PERTURBED: Bad taste is no laughing matter, and your husband is exhibiting bad taste. Warn him beforehand that you will remove his roaming hands if he paws, pats or gently but firmly do so. I would not ordinarily advise a woman to deliberately sit beyond her husband's reach in public—but in your case I will make an exception.

DEAR ABBY: I've got a problem that beats all. I am 32 years old, divorced, with two children. My mother won't let me go out with men. She says it's disgraceful for a divorced woman to be seen with men. (My mother is a widow and I live with her.)

I can't stay in the house 24 hours a day. I'll go mad! It has been like this for 4 years. What can I do? Sign me

A "PRISONER"

DEAR "PRISONER": I don't know what your financial circumstances are, but there must be mother's bed and board and you may have to make some material sacrifices, but it's preferable to being a prisoner. If you can't see this at age 32, stay where you are. Your freedom might bring you more problems than your restrictions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I like this boy named Ricky, but he likes me only as a friend and that isn't what I want. I want him to like me as a girl. He isn't at all cute, makes average grades, has long hair (that's usually greasy) and everybody says she doesn't have as good a personality as I have. Besides that, she tries to act sexy. Who do you think deserves him? And how can I get him away from her?

DEAR SECOND FIDDLE: Regardless of who "deserves" him, the other girl has him so she's satisfied with second fiddle. (At least you're part of the orchestra.) And don't knock the competition or you'll never get a "beau."

DEAR ABBY: At every marriage ceremony I have ever attended, the preacher says, "I now pronounce you man and wife." Now if you stop and analyze it for a moment, it's all wrong. A preacher has the authority to pronounce a couple husband and wife, so why does he pronounce a man and a woman a male a "man."

It would make just as much sense for the preacher to say, "I now pronounce you man and woman."

The point I wish to make, Abby, is this: Just because something has been said for a hundred years, doesn't necessarily make it right.

BAFFLED BY TRADITION: Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK-LET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, L.O.S. ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Sunday,
May 26, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New moon highlights short journey. You may find it necessary to answer calls, reply to messages. Trip could prove beneficial but avoid excess speed. Collect data—be sure of facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Activity accelerated where collections, rewards are concerned. You socialize, express opinion. Others confide. From this combination emerges a fact which proves of personal value—discern.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New moon in your sign brings attention to personal efforts. Friends may appear aggressive. Hold your own. If you display facts, others are more than willing to become allies.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on fraternal activity. New moon position emphasizes ability to work quietly, efficiently. You learn if confident. Display faith in your own ability. Avoid brooding.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Popularity moves upward. New moon position affects prestige, friendships. Excellent for entertaining at home. You receive special compliment. It brings appreciation and profit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Attention centers on aspirations. You find ways, means of achieving goal. One in position to air cause volunteers in your behalf. What you thought was opposition vanishes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your ability to transcend petty opposition is spotlighted. Through social contact you get a chance to advertise your wares. Outlet is provided for your product.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Cement relations with mate, partner. Strengthen other alliances. Consult LIBRA individual—you could gain from his past experience. Check accounts—tighten budget.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't be too anxious to set the pace. Day features relaxation with realization that new activity is on horizon. Check with trusted friend on legal detail.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stress harmony in dealing with children, loved one. Money question need not be roadblock. Diplomacy wins the day. Special entertainment tonight provides mental stimulation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Straighten out domestic affairs. Be willing to let bygones fall into past pattern. Build now for better future relations. Accent on how you respond to family requests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give priority to family affairs. Early today a call or message could necessitate short journey. You get chance to untangle red tape. Do so. Map building. Plans.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a natural executive, capable of working under pressure. You have knack for perceiving business trends and would succeed in a brokerage house. New starts in new directions are upcoming. Stress original approach.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for GEMINI, CANCER. Special word to AQUARIUS: be versatile and agreeable to request by one close to you.

Copr. T-M 1968, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Forecast for Monday,
May 27, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Lunar position emphasizes action. You get off to fast start, but avoid carelessness around traffic, machinery. Steer clear of disputes with relatives. You are vital—people are attracted.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Fast action indicated where financial transactions are concerned. Check details. Don't be sold bill of goods. Means take time to know what's occurring in money arena. Hold back.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Display initiative. Take the lead. Express yourself. Assert right to be where you want to be and when. Means aggressive attitude today ultimately proves constructive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get proper rest; take care of confidential affairs. One who has much to say about your career, aspirations is keeping secrets. Be diplomatic. Gain shown if you are mature.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Some of your fondest hopes, ambitions are revived. You find out where past mistakes occurred. Today you put into action a new policy, program. Avoid brooding about past. Look to future.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Those in position of authority may appear demanding. Be ready for added pressure, responsibility. Call upon past experience. No day to break from tradition. Do what comes naturally.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Finish what you start. Leave no loose ends. Good lunar aspect today coincides with journeys, publishing, strengthening of personal philosophy. Give attention to message from afar.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take time to organize. Know what's going out, coming in—check accounts. Get fresh viewpoint on financial arrangements. Be independent when it comes to investments, savings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some situations which were under control require added attention. Mate or partner could be overly aggressive. Collect facts. Be a keen observer. Don't compound errors. Wait.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Employment activities are accentuated. You find out why some persons have been acting in unusual manner. Be versatile, flexible. Don't argue over minor issues. Maintain dignity and steady pace.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may feel restricted, but tonight there is opportunity for greater self-expression. Your perspective is sharpened. After early discouragement you feel wave of optimism. Good.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't force issues, but maintain control where long-range projects enter picture. Show family member you are interested, concerned. Talk with one who knows property value.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are filled with intellectual curiosity, would make fine reporter. You are able to keep confidences, and many confide their problems. Don't permit people to take advantage by placing burdens on your shoulders. A time now to gather data, prepare for cycle of travel, social activity.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for GEMINI, CANCER. Special word to PISCES: open communication lines, especially where real estate is concerned.

miscegenation (mis-i-je-NAY-shun) marriage between members of different races
After reading a novel explaining miscegenation, the young housewife had a better understanding about the problems of interracial marriages. The unusual theme of the recent movie, miscegenation, was perhaps responsible for its popularity. The two lawyers, discussing the legal aspects of miscegenation, had to agree that marriage was a matter of individual concern.

Slam Bidding Very Scientific

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Today's hand is very much like yesterday's. South has exactly the same cards and North has the same except for the king of hearts instead of a small one.

The combination of an opening no-trump plus partner's 11 high card points is not likely to produce a slam and most pairs using ordinary methods would probably wind up in three no-trump.

The artificial bidding sequence shown in the box illustrates the scientific way to reach a slam. North's two-spade bid shows a minor two suitor of indefinite strength. South's three club bid merely announces that his clubs are at least as good as his diamonds. North's three heart call shows help in hearts, if his partner wants to try three no-trump. It also infers a singleton spade and is a force to game.

South's bid of three spades happens to be a slam try. North can't be sure that it isn't saying South has spades stopped two or more times so North merely goes to three no-trump.

This puts it up to South once more and he bids four clubs. This shows that South's three spade call was a cue bid to show the ace and that South is definitely interested in a club slam.

North might jump to six clubs but he has been bitten by the science bug and bids four diamonds to show that ace. South replies with four hearts to show the ace of hearts and by this time North has had enough. He bids six clubs.

There is nothing to the play at six clubs. All South has to do is to knock out the ace of trumps, draw the rest of the trumps and spread his hand.

Quick Quiz

Q—Who is considered America's first musical composer?
A—Francis Hopkinson, author of "Seven Songs," which is said to be the first book of music to be published by an American composer.

Dear Abby

Husband Needs to be Told

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What does a woman do when her husband won't keep his hands off her in public? Whenever George (not his real name) and I go out, he's forever slapping or pinching my behind, and he doesn't care who sees him. It is very embarrassing.

Also when we go visiting, he keeps at least one hand on or above my knee the entire time we are there. It has gotten so I am ashamed to visit our friends. When we go to a movie, it's just terrible. I have to keep beginning to roam.

George and I have been married for 2 years now, and he has done this ever since we were married. I have tried to talk some sense into him, but he laughs it off and says I should be glad he finds me so desirable. I can't laugh it off. It's too embarrassing. What should I do?

DEAR PERTURBED: Bad taste is no laughing matter, and your husband is exhibiting bad taste. Warn him beforehand that you will remove his roaming hands if he paws, pats or gently but firmly do so. I would not ordinarily advise a woman to deliberately sit beyond her husband's reach in public—but in your case I will make an exception.

DEAR ABBY: I've got a problem that beats all. I am 32 years old, divorced, with two children. My mother won't let me go out with men. She says it's disgraceful for a divorced woman to be seen with men. (My mother is a widow and I live with her.)

I can't stay in the house 24 hours a day. I'll go mad! It has been like this for 4 years. What can I do? Sign me

A "PRISONER"

DEAR "PRISONER": I don't know what your financial circumstances are, but there must be mother's bed and board and make a life of your own. You may have to make some material sacrifices, but it's preferable to being a prisoner. If you can't see this, at age 32, stay where you are. Your freedom might bring you more problems than your restrictions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I like this boy named Ricky, but he likes me only as a friend and that isn't what I want. I want him to like me as a girl. He isn't at all cute, makes average grades, has long hair (that's usually greasy) and everybody says she doesn't have as good a personality as I have. Besides that, she tries to act sexy. Who do you think deserves him? And how can I get him away from her?

DEAR SECOND FIDDLE: Regardless of who "deserves" him, the other girl has him, so be satisfied with second fiddle. (At least you're part of the orchestra.) And don't knock the competition or you'll never get a "beau."

DEAR ABBY: At every marriage ceremony I have ever attended, the preacher says, "I now pronounce you man and wife." Now if you stop and analyze it for a moment, it's all wrong. A preacher has the authority to pronounce a couple husband and wife, so why does husband is a husband, and no one has the authority to pronounce a male a "man."

It would make just as much sense for the preacher to say, "I now pronounce you man and woman."

The point I wish to make, Abby, is this: Just because

Slam Bidding Very Scientific

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Today's hand is very much like yesterday's. South has exactly the same cards and North has the same except for the king of hearts instead of a small one.

The combination of an opening no-trump plus partner's 11 high card points is not likely to produce a slam and most pairs using ordinary methods would probably wind up in three no-trump.

The artificial bidding sequence shown in the box illustrates the scientific way to reach a slam. North's two-spade bid shows

♥K2
♦A10765
♣KJ843
WEST EAST
♥QJ107	♥K8543
♦7743	♦Q965
♣83	♣942
♦A98	♦A1
SOUTH (D)
♥A98
♦A108
♣KQJ
♦Q1075

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
Pass	2♣	Pass	3NT
Pass	3♣	Pass	3NT
Pass	3NT	Pass	4♥
Pass	4♥	Pass	4♥
Pass	4♥	Pass	4♥
Opening lead—♦Q

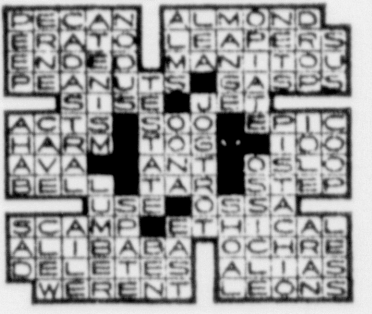

North might jump to six clubs but he has been bitten by the science bug and bids four diamonds to show that ace. South replies with four hearts to show the ace of hearts and by this time North has had enough. He bids six clubs.

There is nothing to the play at six clubs. All South has to do is knock out the ace of trumps, draw the rest of the trumps and spread his hand.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)--"Africa," ABC-TV's four-hour prime time documentary, is the most honored entry in television's third annual critics' consensus poll.

Eighteen daily television columnists from around the nation participate in the poll. There are no categories, no limitations on nominations, no formal ceremonies, except for publication of the results. The period covered was from mid-May, 1967, to May 1, 1968. "Africa" received 13 votes.

The Runners-Up

Runners-up, with nine apiece, were:

—The late Ted Yates of NBC-TV, killed in the Arab-Israeli war, and honored posthumously for his contributions to video's personal journalism as a series.

—The ABC-TV special entitled "The Untouchables" (a World of Jacques Cousteau).

—Melvyn Douglas, for his performance in the "CBS Playhouse" drama "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night," about an old man who refuses to be put out to pasture by his family.

—"CBS Playhouse" as a series.

Under new rules inaugurated this year, "for more equitable consideration of programs not viewed by all critics' consensus members," special honorable mentions were accorded to:

—NBC-TV's live coverage of the confrontation between Sen. J. William Fulbright and Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the Vietnam hearings. (eight votes).

—"Net Playhouse" as a series. (seven votes).

Eight votes were also cast for "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night." And others receiving seven votes were:

Others With Seven

—The Networks for their coverage of the assassination of Martin Luther King and its aftermath.

—CBS-TV's Sol Hurok presentation of classical music, his second such broadcast for the network.

—The Frank Sinatra-Ella Fitzgerald Special on NBC-TV. Entries getting six votes were:

—The "Public Broadcast Laboratory" series, "Where is Prejudice?" "Misterogers' Neighborhood" and "NBC Experiment in Television"—also a series.

Receiving five votes were:

—The weekly "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" show on NBC-TV.

—"Among the Paths to Eden," an ABC-TV Truman Capote drama with Maureen Stapleton and Martin Balsam.

—"The Anderson Playhouse," a CBS-TV documentary about American soldiers at war in Vietnam.

Others Polling

—"How Life Begins," an ABC-TV documentary about the process of birth.

—"The Warren Report," CBS-TV's four-part, four-hour study of the investigation of President Kennedy's assassination.

—Wolper Productions, for exclusive.

turning on the three-part "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," the National Geographic series, "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" specials and "other superior factual programs."

—General Telephone and Electronics for not interrupting its "CBS Playhouse" dramas with commercials.

—Nicol Williamson for his performance as the feeble-minded giant in ABC-TV's adaptation of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men."

Under the voting rules, "Africa" was technically the only full-fledged winner. I think we could loosen the procedure a bit next year. We're not that

Red Gunners Down Four U.S. Bombers

By EUGENE V. RISHER

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners in South Vietnam shot down four U.S. aircraft today. But North Vietnamese missilemen failed in a rare attempt at hitting a B52 bomber with a guided missile, American military spokesmen said.

Two fighter-bombers—a U.S. Air Force prop-driven A1 Skyraider and a U.S. Marine A4 Skyhawk—were shot down in the vicinity of Tam Ky in the northern provinces of South Vietnam.

Elsewhere in the northern sector two helicopters crashed after they were hit by ground fire. A fifth aircraft, a C123 cargo plane, crashed due to unknown causes.

The North Vietnamese missile launching at B52 operating near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam was evidence of stepped-up Communist air-craft activity in the area.

The B52s were attacking troop concentrations and ammunition hiding places near the DMZ in connection with renewed North Vietnamese activity in the area.

V.C. Occupy House

Around Saigon sharp clashes developed with Viet Cong guerrillas occupying houses around a swimming pool and a theater in Gia Dinh, a northern suburb of the capital city, military spokesmen said.

Two companies of South Vietnamese Marines, backed by U.S. Army helicopter gunships, moved against the guerrillas.

There was no immediate report of casualties in the fight. The loss of the two fighter-bombers in the south today brought to 266 the total number of fixed-wing planes shot down in South Vietnam thus far in the war, officials said.

They said a pilot of the Air Force Skyraider was killed when it went down at a point about 16 miles west of Tam Ky. The Marine pilot of the downed A4 Skyhawk ejected and was rescued unhurt, they said.

One of the two helicopters shot down was a U.S. Marine Corps CH46 struck by a mortar shell near Hoi An, 350 miles north of Saigon. Four crewmen were wounded.

The second helicopter, an OH6 observation craft, was hit by machinegun fire 12 miles west-southwest of Dak To in the Central Highlands and exploded, killing its two crewmen.

The three-man crew of the C123, operating at the southern tip of South Vietnam, were listed as missing.

Not far south of the DMZ, at Camp Evans where the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division has headquarters, a single Communist rocket set off explosions that knocked out 100 helicopters and flattened almost every structure on the base, U.S. spokesmen said Friday.

Sunday Attack

They said the Soviet-designed 122 MM rocket had temporarily incapacitated the vital base, 16 miles northwest of Hue. The attack occurred Sunday, the officials said, but for security reasons public disclosure was not made until Friday.

Exact casualty totals in the attack were not disclosed but officials described them as "light."

Elsewhere U.S. and South Vietnamese ground troops battled guerrillas in fighting outside Saigon, and U.S. Marines clashed with Communist troops near Khe Sanh, the Marine outpost in the far northwest corner of South Vietnam.

Men from the U.S. 9th infantry division teamed with white-uniformed Vietnamese national police Friday and ambushed and killed 14 Viet Cong guerrillas who attacked a bridge on the southern outskirts of Saigon.

Majestic, Savago Draw Top Lines

Majestic, Gorman, Savago and Bell all seek the assembly seat to be vacated by incumbent. The lineup of Ulster County candidates on the ballot in the June 18 Primary for the Assembly nomination was determined yesterday at Albany.

The major party designees gained an even split in drawings for ballot positions with Democrat George Majestic attaining the top row position over the official party choice, Dr. Gerald P. Gorman.

Republican Party designee, Peter J. Savago drew the top line over his opponent H. Clark Bell.

Candidates having their name on the top line of the ballot have long been held to be in the most advantageous position.

In the City of Kingston's two battles for aldermen's positions, Sixth Ward challenger Brendan D. Alexander drew the top line over incumbent Robert C. Schantz.

In the Fifth Ward Burton C. Davis gained the first position over Louis J. Smith.

Is Sentenced

To Life Term

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Tivis Trot Hawkins, convicted of the killing of an 18-year-old girl whose body was found on the estate of a noted rabbi, was sentenced Friday to life imprisonment.

Hawkins, 30-year-old former part-time caretaker on the estate of Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath in North Salem, N.Y., was convicted April 30 of the first-degree murder of Jeanette Steinkamp, 17.

The jury also found him guilty of attempted murder in the knife-slashing of Miss Steinkamp's companion, Joseph Gagliardi, 23, and of first-degree assault and first-degree robbery.

Westchester County court Judge P. Raymond Sirignano sentenced Hawkins to life imprisonment on the murder charge; 12½ to 25 years on the attempted murder charge; five to 10 years for assault and 15 to 30 years for robbery.

He ordered that Hawkins serve the sentences for attempted murder and assault concurrently, but that he must then serve the robbery sentence and then the life term for murder.

His attorney said the conviction would be appealed.

The young couple had parked beside a reservoir the night of the killing when they were accosted by a Negro brandishing a gun.

He got in the back seat, robbed Gagliardi, and forced them to drive to the Eisendrath estate. The rabbi was not at home at the time, and the man tied the couple up. Later he took Gagliardi to the basement, tied him to a support pole, and slashed at his throat.

Gagliardi came to later to find himself in the trunk of his own car, parked some distance from the estate. He crawled out of the trunk and was taken to the hospital by a passerby.

Armed with a map made by Gagliardi, police went to the estate and searched for the girl. They found her body partly concealed on the grounds.

Oregon Hopefuls Getting Jitters

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is uneasy about the outcome of next Tuesday's presidential primary in Oregon.

So is New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Both Kennedy and Rockefeller forces are showing signs of the jitters about the key primary which political pros say could do or undo a variety of candidates.

Campaign managers for Kennedy are worried because their canvassers are finding as many as 30 per cent of the state's democrats uncommitted with the election only three days away.

They also are concerned about a drive mounted by organized labor in behalf of President Johnson.

New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay stumped Oregon for Rockefeller Friday but supporters of the New York Governor were still apprehensive that his late start might hurt him in a state he won in 1964.

Kennedy's Oregon campaign was the target of backfires of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Friday. They needed the Kennedy camp by saying his campaign would falter if he wasn't impressively successful in Oregon.

Sens. Fred C. Harris, D-Okla., and Walter Mondale, D-Minn., Co-Chairman of United Democrats for Humphrey, continued to push the Oregon drive for President Johnson, still on the ballot.

Sens. Fred C. Harris, D-Okla., and Walter Mondale, D-Minn., CoChairman of United Democrats for Humphrey, continued to push the Oregon drive for President Johnson, still on the ballot.

A vote for Johnson, Humphrey supporters think, would amount to a vote for the vice president, who isn't on the ballot.

In other political developments: Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy addressing the prestigious Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, said the American dollar, however insecure, is the "third great force" by which the United States wields its power.

The other two, he said, are soldiers and diplomats.

Humphrey—the vice president, appearing at a dairy-men's meeting in Kansas City, thanked Missouri Democrats for their support. A state party survey Thursday showed that 72 per cent of Missouri's convention delegates favored Humphrey, with 23 per cent backing Kennedy and only 5 per cent behind McCarthy.

Colleges Get $$$ Pledge From State Legislature

By GERRY McLAUGHLIN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's private, non-sectarian colleges had a firm pledge today of state financial aid running upwards of $30 million in the next few years.

That was clear after the legislature voted its approval Friday of Gov. Rockefeller's proposal to authorize direct state aid to private colleges and universities.

Chances appeared virtually nil, however, for approval of a companion plan to lift the state Constitution's ban on state aid to church-related schools. The measure was locked in committee.

Thus, the proposal adopted Friday would affect only 60 of the state's 143 private institutions of higher learning.

Much Action Taken

The state aid measure was one of scores on which the legislature acted Friday as it edged toward final adjournment today.

Here are some of the other developments: —Both houses passed—without debate—a resolution to raise the salary of the governor to $85,000 a year from the current highest in the nation level of $50,000.

The same resolution boosted the lieutenant governor's pay from $30,000 to $45,000 a year.

Leaders explained privately that the increases were considered appropriate since the salaries of lesser ranking officials, such as the education commissioner and state comptroller, have been jumped to $45,000.

Since the proposal was in the form of a resolution, it does not require Rockefeller's approval to become law.

The Senate and Assembly endorsed a plan to give $40 million to the state's cities in the current fiscal year, another $100 million next year and $150 million in the final phase of the three-year plan.

The aid-to-colleges proposal gained Assembly approval by a vote of 93-40. The Senate concurred later, 39-16.

Rockefeller urged its passage, citing the recommendations of an advisory panel, headed by Ford Foundation President McGeorge Bundy.

Under the legislation, the state would study the needs and applications of the eligible colleges and universities, then begin doling out money, effective July 1, 1969.

The amount apportioned each institution would be pegged to the number of degrees the school awarded each academic year.

Pegged By Degrees

The amount proposed for each college and university would be $400 for each bachelor's degree and $2,400 for each doctoral degree.

Critics of the measure argued that state money should be pumped into public colleges, because, they said, their needs are greater.

Opponents also contended that the plan would subsidize activities not related to teaching of students.

However, the chief spokesman for the bill, Sen. Ronald Stafford, R-Peru, said, "The day is gone when they—private institutions—can go it alone."

Stafford estimated that the state would probably supply about $18 million in the period beginning July 1, 1969, and at least $30 million the following year.

Quizzed in Death

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — State Police said today they were questioning a man in connection with the slaying of a 59-year-old farmer whose body was found Tuesday in a field on the outskirts of the city.

They said Paul W. Fritz, who had been missing from his home in nearby Hall since Saturday, died of a fractured skull.

Where Morgan & Annie Ride the Tide

TEMPO staffers took off for the southeastern corner of the Connecticut coastline one recent weekend and found there a tourist attraction supreme. Others had found it before us, of course, for we speak of Mystic Seaport, that outdoor museum of unique and varied appeal on the east bank of the Mystic River, 10 miles east of New London.

In the Mystic of old there were in the mid-19th century as many as 14 ship-building firms in full operation at one and the same time, and today's Mystic recalls that historic seacoast town of yore.

As created by The Marine Historical Association, Mystic Seaport is one of the largest and most colorful repositories of nautical memorabilia in existence. Indeed, in its preservation of our maritime heritage, it stands as a "living" memorial to the men, ships and skills that framed the history of the U.S. merchant marine.

Founded in 1929, the Association (boasting only three members) was an attempt to end the indiscriminate destruction of irreplaceable relics and data of maritime history. It was a long haul but by 1941 two museum buildings were actually housing collections, exhibits of significance, and a small library. One employee handled the running of the beginning seaport easily and kept vigil over the first vessel there, the Sandbagger ANNIE.

Today Mystic Seaport occupies 37 acres on which over 60 major museum buildings are located. The G.W. Blunt White Library is a research facility with more than 22,000 books and over 140,000 manuscript pieces. Exhibited at the wharves are several historically significant ships. More than 100 small craft of various types, some the only remaining examples of their kind, are on exhibit. Membership in the Association currently exceeds 12,000; a building reserved expressly for the use of visiting members was opened in 1965. During 1967, well over 400,000 persons visited the Seaport, some more than once, since the maritime treasures exhibited are most effectively "digested" by allowing ample time for inspection.

Morgan Moors

The development of Mystic Seaport followed the acquisition of the famous wooden whaleship CHARLES W. MORGAN in 1941. The MORGAN is the last wooden whaleship surviving from mid-19th-century America. Walking her decks a hundred years later, visitors may acquaint themselves with tools and equipment used in hunting the mighty whale; going below, they may see the cramped quarters and imagine conditions experienced by courageous seamen living aboard ship for periods that often extended to years. Representative of the industry which dominated American maritime commerce during the days of the great sailing ships like her, the MORGAN has determined the focus of many other Mystic Seaport displays.

In the development of American maritime commerce, fishing schooners, many out of Gloucester, Massachusetts, were nearly as significant as whaleships; one of these now famous Gloucester fishing schooners, the 124-foot L.A. DUNTON, may also be explored by Mystic Seaport visitors. Several other classic but smaller types of American fishing craft are waterborne exhibits.

At the wharves, too, are several non-commercial ships. These vessels have helped to broaden the scope of Mystic Seaport, so that today's visitors find nautical exhibits relating to all phases of the Age of Sail. Demonstrations, pertaining to ship restoration and allied industries, are presented throughout the Seaport area. In the "Greenman Brothers Shipyard," as an example, (a key exhibit area at Mystic Seaport since it occupies a portion of the former Geo. Greenman & Co. yard) restoration and marine maintenance activities are carried on throughout the year, to afford visitors the opportunity of observing 19th-century shipbuilding techniques as well as those currently in use.

To provide an appropriate setting for the shipbuilding activities and old ships, The Marine Historical Association has also created the streets and buildings of a 19th-century coastal community. The chapel, apothecary shop, tavern, general store, countinghouse, one-room schoolhouse, residence buildings, and other restored shops and structures along Seaport Street and Village Street are similar to those found in small New England communities of the period. The sail and rigging lofts, ropewalk, shipsmith's shop, cooperage, and ship chandlery are representative of the maritime industries indigenous to this type of community. Cobblestoned streets add quaintness and charm.

More Formal Side

In addition to the village shops, formal museum buildings are devoted to exhibits of figureheads, rigged ship models, half-models, whaling implements, scrimshaw pieces, and other nautical items. The majority of ship figureheads in this unique collection may be seen in the South Wing of the Stillman Building, named for one of the three founders of the Association. In the Pyncheon Junior Museum, children are encouraged to touch the exhibit items, which have been specially arranged for them. The Mystic Seaport Planetarium combines features of a formal display building and a special-purpose facility; through a variety of daily shows as well as long-term exhibits, Planetarium visitors are made aware of the importance of astronomy to navigation.

In several of the village exhibit buildings, demonstrations by skilled artisans provide visitors first-hand glimpses of maritime crafts now rare or obsolete. On the forges at the shipsmith's shop miniature harpoons and lances take shape as well as fittings used in the restoration of Mystic Seaport vessels. Woodcrafts are demonstrated in the ship-carver's shop, where original carvings are made and some of the old figureheads restored. In most of the shops and buildings, between April and

Now at HUVREP: Comedy and Tragedy

Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre, at Woodstock Playhouse, is currently running in repertory Oliver Goldsmith's uproarious 18th century farce, She Stoops To Conquer, and Arthur Miller's poignant contemporary classic, Death Of A Salesman.

She Stoops To Conquer is truly one of the funniest plays ever written. Tony Lumpkin is a spoiled young rascal who thinks it a good joke to send his step-sister's suitor, Marlowe, to the family home — and tell him it is an inn. The unfortunate Marlowe mistakes the young lady in question for a bar maid and her parents for inn keepers. Master Lumpkin, played with wonderful panache and swag by Bill Ade, keeps the members of the household in continual confusion by his efforts to aid, abet—or confound—and the general topsy-turvy on stage keeps the members of the audience continually laughing.

Bill Metz is the deluded Marlowe, a hapless gentleman literally frozen in the presence of a "nice girl," and Tanny MacDonald is the beguiling bewitch-

She Stoops boasts also a subplot involving elopement and eventually a deadly trip to the family horse pond, an expedition led by none other than the intrepid T. Lumpkin. The young lady thus liberated is a newcomer to the HUVREP acting company, Margaret Cathell, a comely young woman with a delightful Joan Greenwood voice. Her dashing swain is played by John Swearingen. Another HUVREP newcomer is Gene Nye, who is absolutely convulsing as Diggory, the servant advanced from the stable to the sideboard; and he and his fellow motlies are the causes of even more fresh laughter!

Death Of A Salesman, of course, is entertainment of another kind. Arthur Miller's Pulitzer prize-winning play is a penetrating revelation of the tragedy underlying the "American way of life." It is a study of everyday existence elevated by the playwright to the highest level of theatricality. Willy Loman is the salesman, played with honesty and moving power by Fred Miller, who has sold himself and his family a false bill of goods. Only Willy's son Biff, played by John Swearingen, realizes that good old American dream, is phony: "I'm not a leader of men, Willy, and neither are you," he says brokenly. Willy's less comprehending wife and other son Happy are played by Ann Drisco and Bill Ade.

The two productions continue to give matinees to busloads of students, who travel to Woodstock from all over New York State, from New York City, Pennsylvania and Connecticut as well as from our local school systems.

Productions play to the public Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre is a tax-exempt, non-profit regional theatre, and it needs YOUR attendance and support to play at all!

For information and reservations call the Woodstock Playhouse box office.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER" is a classic comedy of mistaken identity in which Tony Lumpkin, a young man played here as the name implies by William B. Ade, mischievously directs his step-sister's suitor, Marlowe (William Metz), to an "inn" which is really his own home. With Ade in this scene is Miss Neville (Margaret Cathell), who is using the house for an assignation and planned elopement with Marlowe's friend Hastings (John Swearingen). "She Stoops" is due for repeat performances at the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre in the Woodstock Playhouse tonight and on May 31 and June 2.

CAUGHT IN REHEARSAL SHOT for "Death of a Salesman" are Fred Miller as that weary and finally defeated huckster, Willy Loman, and Margaret Cathell as the woman he visits in Boston when he's off on the road. The highly acclaimed drama by Arthur Miller opened last week at the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre in the Woodstock Playhouse. Those who missed the opening night showing of "Salesman" will be able to see it on May 26 and June 1.

Jet Set's Answer to Merv Griffin

BY TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Why must every pop music group follow whither the Beatles leadeth? Why must every drum roll on every rock record sound borrowed from the same source? Why has the pop music audience treated most of today's musical groups as a one-man show? Why must the melodies of songs run together, like finger paints on a child's palette?

They mustn't—at least not always—and the proof rests with those who have been digging the scene locally with Tino & The Revlons. This is one group that has refused to have the current "formula" imposed on its music. That formula which most of today's young musicians observe as rigidly as young ladies defer to the three inches above the knee hemline.

Tino & The Revlons long since decided they had a choice—to follow the dictates of what was the current chic...or to use selectivity for its own ends. That is not to say they are not stylish. Their appearances feature the top 40 tunes in the country at any given time and a goodly number of their own groovy compositions. But audiences shortly find they're different. In fact, they find they've NEVER seen anything quite like them.

They're Listenable

In their appearances here at Kingston's Walnut Grove—where they have been playing since the first of May and will be holding forth through June 1—they've proved they're a listenable group.

But their signature is certainly nothing like that of the Beatles. Nor can one count them in that category occupied by Simon and Garfunkel. And comparisons cannot be drawn between them and the multifaceted Bee Gees.

What breed of musicians are they, then, since they're unlike anything else currently revving up the musical scene? Says Tino, stroking his stylish beard thoughtfully: "What is our act patterned after? Nothing that's ever existed...but it's a sort of jet set's answer to Merv Griffin."

You have to look behind the act to find the real Tino & The Revlons. This is their first stint in Kingston but they've played the area before. Their brand of "cool" has been popular down Newburgh way and in the Tri-City area up north of here, from which they departed some five years ago on a nationwide tour.

Detroit Darlings

Eastern Seaboard boys one and all, they took Detroit by storm on that tour; were voted one of the most popular bands west of the East Coast (Which must prove that it sometimes pays to follow that philosophic bit of advice once suggested by Horace Greeley).

The Revlons make three when you add Tino, the leader with a talent that must definitely be counted in, to Mark Anthony and Ken Russo. Tino comes from New York City, Mark and Ken from Batavia. How did they get together originally?

"It wasn't easy!" grins Tino.

Maybe not but it was certainly a happy circumstance that talent and wry wit managed to attract and combine in spite of the implied difficulties. The trio is neck-deep in melody, head high in entertainment, and those who have been hearing them and dancing with them at the Walnut Grove, will tell you that Merv Griffin could use them. Be that as it may, Johnny Carson's got 'em...and they'll be making a break-up appearance on his late night show in June.

If Tino & The Revlons cannot be classified as custom-made, how does one define this psychedelic tornado? We'd say their act is entertainment as opposed to just music. Barnstorming through every state in the U.S. of A. except two, and appearing in such spots as The Yellow Finger, Sway Lounge, Vertigo, The Roostertail, Metropole, Delabar and, of course, The Walnut Grove, they've rocked their way through the outrageous and back again.

Get Them Moving

With an organ and drums, they draw a response from audiences that can only be described as enthusiastic. Since the Revlons stress audience participation, their major job in any set is to get the people out front moving and that's what this trio does best. There are no barriers left to block the fun by the time Tino lures members of the audience to come up onstage and do their thing. "That's when the ham comes out," he says.

This, in part, is the secret of their success and their popularity. The human quality is preserved—and even heightened—when the Revlons entertain. With a professional touch that comes from nine years of working together, on and off Dearborn Records, their sound effects are highly selective. On best selling record after best selling record (Ra Veon; Ya, Ya; Little Girl, Little Girl; Sugaree), they give an excellent account of themselves. If the riffs are cool, as played by the Revlons, the audience participants are often unaccountable and, together, the two become a seismographic, psychedelic barrage.

The Revlons have taken over the Walnut Grove like a three-man invasion. Average age of the trio is 26 and the only married member is Mark Anthony. Bachelor Tino and fellow single, Ken Russo, spend their time off at Tino's new digs in Vermont on property he just bought.

Long Gone Away

Kingston strikes them as "quieter than we thought it would be." Somehow from what they'd heard about our town in the past, they were looking forward to taking a trip on an excursion boat; were disappointed to find such floating fun no longer existed. So they settled in at a local hotel to make the best of it.

If you haven't seen them perform with that rare brand of technical proficiency that is theirs alone, you can project with them Wednesday through Sunday from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m. at the Walnut Grove. They're arty enough for adults, pop-oriented enough for the young, and complex enough for everybody. They play the drums faster and longer than anybody else, get distinctive orchestration from the organ...and are the rhythmic most!

We but 'em—incredible parody, jet set pulse beat, and all...and we think you will, too.

A Mystical Magic and Word Imagery

By JEAN F. DOLAN

THE SPARROW by Jane Tyson Clement, The Plough Publishing Company, Rifton, N.Y., 200 pages, $5.20.

Mystical magic and word imagery permeate every page of Jane Tyson Clement's delightful collection of short stories and poems for young and old just issued by the Plough Publishing Company of Rifton.

The author, a member of the Society of Brothers Community at Rifton, has compiled a seeking volume which embodies a Blake-like hope—her sparrow doesn't burn in the night but there is a light—with a faith in if not a Holy Grail, at least a Secret Flower.

The little stories with very big messages are all bound round with charming woodcut illustrations created by Kathy Mow, a resident of the Rifton Community for many years and now a member of the Farmington, Pa., community. As Mrs. Clement has set her tales in the medieval villages of the classic fairy tale, so the artist has followed through with the rough hewn companion pictures reminiscent of the treasured volumes of my youth. Buckles on boots, thatches on roofs and snow caught on tiny window panes all contribute to the once-upon-a-time that is really for-right-now feeling.

To Be Treasured

Rounding out the local production which is a masterpiece in coordinated effort, David Maendel, a graduate of Kingston High school, has created a printed volume to be treasured and not just as a story book. In her imagery, the author has created a joyful book to read just for the written return to rural beauty—be it sunlit meadow or raging storm. Much more is offered in the content, however, as she explores the search of man for purpose and meaning. These may have a fairy tale motif but the message is for today.

AUTHOR JANE T. CLEMENT, whose latest published work is marked by a sense of expectancy and a belief in something new. A feeling of earthiness and reality pervades "The Sparrow," the book she has written based on the spirit of adventure and purpose of the communal life she leads. An earlier Christmas story by Mrs. Clement drew excellent reviews.

One story in particular caught this reviewer's fancy as being particularly applicable in this day of "Let George Do It" and "Don't Get Involved."

The King of the Land in the Middle finds that having everything like Camelot is not ever enough. One must grieve to experience the other extreme of joy and if winters are mild and summers just right then what excitement can there ever be in radiant spring and flaming fall. Involvement on both sides of the experience quotient are necessary for life beyond just existence.

In his land before the change, The King of the Middle knew nothing of "hot coffee" or "cold winters." Things were so status quo there were no songs to sing, no history to write, no smiles and no tears. A journey to the land of devastation, wars and drought taught the king and his people that only through a full spectrum of living can one experience anything bordering on total enjoyment—and sorrow.

Always the Search

Through all her stories and poems, Mrs. Clement is concerned with the search. And to aid in the search for something meaningful in life, be it medieval or modern, she turns to "the stranger," "the child" or "the something."

Everyone starts with the seemingly insoluble situation which is aided to the inspiring conclusion by one of these protagonists. The Innkeeper's Son, blind, and considered a dull lad at best, finds meaning and purpose in the visit from "the stranger." Sight regained, he follows in the footsteps of his savior.

The Sparrow, too, is parable in nature. Restoration of life to the tiny bird has all the connotation of Scripture without an underline. His eye is indeed on The Sparrow of Mrs.

Clement's creation and she doesn't have to tell you so. You just know.

PROFUSELY AND EXQUISITELY illustrated by Kathy Mow, "The Sparrow" cover jacket features this drawing which speaks eloquently for the distinctive stories and poems in the just published book. "Sparrow" author Clement penned the book out of her experience and life as a member of the closely knit community that is the Society of Brothers at nearby Rifton, where all things are shared in common in the manner of the early Christians.

Jet Set's Answer to Merv Griffin

21-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, MAY 25, 1968

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Why must every pop music group follow whither the Beatles leadeth? Why must every drum roll on every rock record sound borrowed from the same source? Why has the pop music audience treated most of today's musical groups as a one-man show? Why must the melodies of songs run together, like finger paints on a child's palette?

They mustn't—at least not always—and the proof rests with those who have been digging the scene locally with Tino & The Revlons. This is one group that has refused to have the current "formula" imposed on its music. That formula which most of today's young musicians observe as rigidly as young ladies defer to the three inches above the knee hemline.

Tino & The Revlons long since decided they had a choice—to follow the dictates of what was the current chic...or to use selectivity for its own ends. That is not to say they are not stylish. Their appearances feature the top 40 tunes in the country at any given time and a goodly number of their own groovy compositions. But audiences shortly find they're different. In fact, they find they've NEVER seen anything quite like them.

They're Listenable

In their appearances here at Kingston's Walnut Grove—where they have been playing since the first of May and will be holding forth through June 1—they've proved they're a listenable group.

But their signature is certainly nothing like that of the Beatles. Nor can one count them in that category occupied by Simon and Garfunkel. And comparisons cannot be drawn between them and the multifaceted Bee Gees.

What breed of musicians are they, then, since they're unlike anything else currently revving up the musical scene? Says Tino, stroking his stylish beard thoughtfully: "What is our act patterned after? Nothing that's ever existed...but it's a sort of jet set's answer to Merv Griffin."

You have to look behind the act to find the real Tino & The Revlons. This is their first stint in Kingston but they've played the area before. Their brand of "cool" has been popular down Newburgh way and in the Tri-City area up north of here, from which they departed some five years ago on a nationwide tour.

Detroit Darlings

Eastern Seaboard boys one and all, they took Detroit by storm on that tour; were voted one of the most popular bands west of the East Coast (Which must prove that it sometimes pays to follow that philosophic bit of advice once suggested by Horace Greeley).

The Revlons make three when you add Tino, the leader with a talent that must definitely be counted in, to Mark Anthony and Ken Russo. Tino comes from New York City, Mark and Ken from Batavia. How did they get together originally?

"It wasn't easy!" grins Tino.

Maybe not but it was certainly a happy circumstance that talent and wry wit managed to attract and combine in spite of the implied difficulties. The trio is neck-deep in melody, head high in entertainment, and those who have been hearing them and dancing with them at the Walnut Grove, will tell you that Merv Griffin could use them. Be that as it may, Johnny Carson's got 'em...and they'll be making a break-it-up appearance on his late night show in June.

If Tino & The Revlons cannot be classified as custom-made, how does one define this psychedelic tornado? We'd say their act is entertainment as opposed to just music. Barnstorming through every state in the U.S. of A. except two, and appearing in such spots as The Yellow Finger, Sway Lounge, Vertigo, The Roostertail, Metropole, Delabar and, of course, The Walnut Grove, they've rocked their way through the outrageous and back again.

Get Them Moving

With an organ and drums, they draw a response from audiences that can only be described as enthusiastic. Since the Revlons stress audience participation, their major job in any set is to get the people out front moving and that's what this trio does best. There are no barriers left to block the fun by the time Tino lures members of the audience to come up onstage and do their thing. "That's when the ham comes out," he says.

This, in part, is the secret of their success and their popularity. The human quality is preserved—and even heightened—when the Revlons entertain. With a professional touch that comes from nine years of working together, on and off Dearborn Records, their sound effects are highly selective. On best selling record after best selling record (Ra Veon; Ya, Ya; Little Girl, Little Girl; Sugaree), they give an excellent account of themselves. If the riffs are cool, as played by the Revlons, the audience participants are often unaccountable and, together, the two become a seismographic, psychedelic barrage.

The Revlons have taken over the Walnut Grove like a three-man invasion. Average age of the trio is 26 and the only married member is Mark Anthony. Bachelor Tino and fellow single, Ken Russo, spend their time off at Tino's new digs in Vermont on property he just bought.

Long Gone Away

Kingston strikes them as "quieter than we thought it would be." Somehow from what they'd heard about our town in the past, they were looking forward to taking a trip on an excursion boat; were disappointed to find such floating fun no longer existed. So they settled in at a local hotel to make the best of it.

If you haven't seen them perform with that rare brand of technical proficiency that is theirs alone, you can project with them Wednesday through Sunday from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m. at the Walnut Grove. They're arty enough for adults, pop-oriented enough for the young, and complex enough for everybody. They play the drums faster and longer than anybody else, get distinctive orchestration from the organ...and are the rhythmic most!

We but 'em—incredible parody, jet set pulse beat, and all...and we think you will, too.

A Mystical Magic and Word Imagery

By JEAN F. DOLAN

THE SPARROW by Jane Tyson Clement, The Plough Publishing Company, Rifton, N.Y., 200 pages, $5.20.

Mystical magic and word imagery permeate every page of Jane Tyson Clement's delightful collection of short stories and poems for young and old just issued by the Plough Publishing Company of Rifton.

The author, a member of the Society of Brothers Community at Rifton, has compiled a seeking volume which embodies a Blake-like hope—her sparrow doesn't burn in the night but there is a light—with a faith in if not a Holy Grail, at least a Secret Flower.

The little stories with very big messages are all bound round with charming woodcut illustrations created by Kathy Mow, a resident of the Rifton Community for many years and now a member of the Farmington, Pa., community. As Mrs. Clement has set her tales in the medieval villages of the classic fairy tale, so the artist has followed through with the rough hewn companion pictures reminiscent of the treasured volumes of my youth. Buckles on boots, thatches on roofs and snow caught on tiny window panes all contribute to the once-upon-a-time that is really forthright-now feeling.

Television

None other than August Heckscher, of Stone Ridge, Ulster County, stood up at a press party at Harlem's Small's Paradise this week and announced the Second Annual Harlem Cultural Festival. Heckscher, of course, besides being an Ulsterite, is New York City's Administrator of Parks.

What was noteworthy about his announcement was the fact that nine big Festival events will be staged on Sundays from 3 to 6 p.m. beginning June 30 and continuing to Sept. 8. News-worthy (for the purposes of this page) is the fact that WNEW-TV, Channel 5, is helping to underwrite this year's Festival and will bring some of the events to television in prime time this summer. Cameras will be covering events in Mount Morris Park, 124th Street and Fifth Avenue, in Manhattan. The televised events will be about where the Negro lives, physically and spiritually. The Festival itself is a showcase for Harlem, but talent and audience will come from all over New York, all over the Americas, and all over the world. Among them: Count Basie, Herbie Mann, Mahalia Jackson, Olatunji African Drummers and Dancers, the Tito Puente Band, Sidney Poitier, Lee Remick, Diana Sands and Tony Lawrence.

We get so few opportunities to mention ballet in the pages of TEMPO that it seems appropriate to point out that six outstanding ballet companies, chosen to perform in the Ninth Annual Northeastern Regional Ballet Festival in Princeton, N.J., will be taped live and seen through the facilities of Channel 17 tonight at 8:30. Highlighted will be the gala finale of the Festival at the McCarter Theatre, including dramatic portrayals of contemporary and classical works.

Among the ballet companies performing will be the Dutchess County Ballet, dancing "Old Vienna" by Strauss. Also to be seen: Benjamin Britten's "Seaburne," Vivaldi's "Concerto," Poulenc's "Three Times Passing," and Schoenberg's "Sixth Dimension."

Far from the world of ballet is the world of protest and resistance, but "From Protest to Resistance" should prove interesting viewing. This NET JOURNAL program will probe the changing character of dissent as typified by Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael, political activist Mario Savio, and draft resistance leader David Harris on Monday, May 27 at 9 p.m. over Channel 17.

You'll hear Harris scorn protest marches as vehicles for "acting out impotence" and Savio call for "a movement for white liberalization." Carmichael will call upon Negroes to oppose the draft and, all in all, it should be a politically powerful documentary—the type at which educational television excels.

HAND ME DOWN THINGS:

The rumor that Elvis Presley is going to have a TV special is true. He's scheduled to give us that great big treat sometime around Christmas on NBC. David Frost, in his amusing book "The English," co-authored with Antony Jay, has a funny description of life as seen through TV commercials. It goes like this: "Television advertising... entirely directed by men, characterizes a woman as a creature dominated by a naive belief in magic," he writes. He describes all the magic that gets her a husband, and then says that after marriage "there are plenty of miracles about. There is something magic to clean the bath; something occult to polish the floor; a flash of lightning sees to the washing up; a touch of sorcery produces food fit for a god; a little fairy leads her each day to the best buy in the supermarket; and a kindly gnome caresses away her headache."...Has anybody noted that Bill Cosby's Grammy Award for his "Revenge" album was his fourth successive Grammy, a record in the business?

A brief run-through of our likes and dislikes on TV during the week just past would have to go something like this:

To accuse the Emmy Awards show of being the most tasteless, uninteresting, badly di-

MARIO SAVIO, who became the prototype of student protest when he led the Free Speech movement at Berkeley in 1964, is featured in NET Journal's "From Protest to Resistance." rected and utterly mismanaged program we've ever seen is probably akin to accusing Ladybird of littering or Bobbie Kennedy of bigamy—but we accuse those responsible for this year's Emmy fiasco of just that.

We found ourselves totally immersed in the successful attempt made by TV to use its potential for communicating between peoples and cultures via the program, "One Nation, Indivisible." There was much in this multi-voiced show that brought about an understanding of the racial problem and how it evolved. It was all there from the negro schoolteacher in Philadelphia who said she really doesn't want to live next door to whites or have them for friends because integration hasn't worked for 400 years, to the white San Francisco liberals who insisted there's going to be a change in our "well-ordered" society, whether it's changed the way they want it changed or not.

We learned much from "In the Name of God," the Saga of Western Man special focusing on modern missionaries who have evolved a way of life that is far more materialistic than it is spiritual. As one missionary put it: "I give my people God in the form of water for their crops and food for their stomachs." It was inspiring, at the least, to see selflessness—a point of character too seldom seen in this society—emphasized.

And, finally, the visual potentials of television, it seems to us, have rarely if ever been as well fulfilled as on The Big Little World of Roman Vishniac. Vishniac, biologist-zoologist and photographer of microscopic life, also appeared to be one of the world's most unforgettable and great characters whose life story must have been scripted in heaven by an angel with designs on being a Hollywood super writer. The stills, slides and films used were all visually breath-taking.

COMING UP ON TV in the week ahead are the following programs, which TEMPO rates as the probable best bets for viewing:

Today, Sat., May 25

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS (ABC, 5 p.m.). The Rugby League Cup Final play-off at Wembley Stadium, London. Burly players without padding who handle the ball in a game that bears some similarity to football.

Sunday, May 26

N.Y. PHILHARMONIC YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONCERT (CBS, 4:30 p.m.). The fourth of this season's concerts during which conductor Leonard Bernstein asks the audience and viewers: "How Musical Are You?" in a combination quiz-concert.

Monday, May 27

EARLY EVENING NEWS (ABC, 7 p.m.). A look at the little red schoolhouse as it exists in the Soviet Union. Tonight is the first of a five-part series and focuses on education in the Moscow area.

THE REAL REVOLUTION: TALKS BY KRISHNAMURTI (Channel 17, 10:30 p.m.). "Meditation is the freeing of the mind of the known," says Krishnamurti, "it is emptying the mind of all its previous experience," so speaks the well-known Indian spiritual leader as he delves into the topic "Meditation" in his fourth discussion in a current series.

Tuesday, May 28

CAMPAIGN AMERICAN STYLE (CBS, 10 p.m.). Eric Sevareid and Jay McMullen cover "the new politics," to show how public relations, advertising and other image makers can "create" a politician—in this case, Soi Wachtler. An almost unknown candidate, Wachtler became a potential winner in eight months; was a manufactured but very real threat to Eugene Nickerson who, as everybody knows, is currently taking on Joe Resnick and Paul O'Dwyer right here and right now.

Wednesday, May 29

NET FESTIVAL (Channel 17, 9 p.m.). Vocalists Carmen McRae and Mel Torme, pianist Earl "Fatha" Hines, and the Woody Herman orchestra are some of the great names in jazz appearing in this second program of the NET series "The Tenth Annual Monterey Jazz Festival."

Friday, May 31

NET PLAYHOUSE (Channel 17, 8:30 p.m.). "The Walls of Jericho"—story of a former Australian sheep farmer who buys his way into London Society and marries a vain, aristocratic woman. (T.G.)

THE LOVERS in the Schenectady Civic Ballet's performance of "Three Times Passing" by Poulenc, which will be seen on Channel 17 tonight at 8:30. The ballet will be part of "The Northeastern Regional Ballet Festival," a program which is being produced by the area educational TV station under a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York to the Eastern Educational Network.

Classic Film Festival

Forty all-time classic films will be presented in a ten-week Summer Film Festival sponsored by Saratoga Performing Arts Center, June 29 through Sept. 1, at the Spa Summer Theater on the Saratoga Spa grounds.

The Festival will be preceded by the upstate premier of George Balanchine's film version of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to be shown in a gala benefit performance June 28 at 8:30 p.m. in the Community Theater in Saratoga Springs. Proceeds of the benefit will go to SPAC's new workshop for young choreographers and dancers.

The entire cast of the New York City Ballet appears in the color movie, which has been hailed as one of the best dance films ever made. Based on the Shakespeare play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is danced to the music of Felix Mendelssohn.

Films to be shown in the Spa Summer Theater will feature famous screen personalities, the work of outstanding directors, and picturizations of great novels.

Represented in the festival will be such celebrated stars as Charlie Chaplin, W. C. Fields, Harold Lloyd, and Fernandel; Rudolph Valentino, Clara Bow, Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, Marlene Dietrich, and Marcello Mastroianni.

Directors represented will include Alfred Hitchcock, Vittorio de Sica, Roberto Rossellini, Federico Fellini and Ingmar Bergman.

Brochures listing all films scheduled for the festival will be available June 1. They may be obtained by writing: Film Festival, Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. 12866.

Slate PAW Tryouts

Open tryouts will be held for two original one-act plays. The Bread Tree and The Beholder, at 8 p.m. at the Little Theater, Tinker Street, Woodstock, on Sunday and Monday, May 26 and 27.

The two plays, both by Kit Jones, were selected and approved on the basis of their artistic merit by Performing Arts of Woodstock and director Bob Burgos. The production is slated for a July opening.

"Don't be timid!" says Burgos. "This is an opportunity to become directly involved. Come to the Little Theater on tryout nights. We're always looking for local talent."

Needed to fill roles are two men and two women. Other productions are scheduled for the future and those actors and actresses who do not appear in the July plays may well find a part in the next one.

The Sunday and Monday sessions will offer the chance for PAW to get to know interested persons and visa versa. Also needed are those interested in the technical or business end of production.

Winn's Poetry

O. Howard Winn, professor of English and head of the Department of English and Humanities at Dutchess Community College, has poetry appearing in the spring issues of "Carolina Quarterly" and "Laurel Review."

A magazine of fiction and poetry, "Carolina Quarterly" is published by the University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill, N.C.

Snyder Speaks Out on Radio

Kingstonian John M. Snyder said last week in a Washington, D. C. radio interview, that consenting public opinion is a basis for the legitimacy of democratic governments. The live broadcast was carried over WGTV-FM, Georgetown University's educational station serving the capital's metropolitan area. Snyder said the Constitutional recognition of Presidential, Senatorial and Congressional voting constituencies provides a continual and varied framework within which public opinion operates. He said that various types of public opinion polls may provide complimentary information but that elections are the decisive instrumentalities in the public opinion process.

Snyder, a Georgetown alumnus is a political scientist. He expects to publish his thesis on party politics in his home area later this year.

Previous interview subjects on the program, "Premise" have included personalities such as Jack Anderson of the Anderson and Person syndicated column.

WHY WE SAY

PORTERHOUSE STEAK

FOR BEER: When New York City was young, taverns that served a dark brown beer known as porter also served high-quality steaks which became known as porterhouse steaks.

WHY WE SAY PORTERHOUSE STEAK

FOR BEER: When New York City was young, taverns that served a dark brown beer known as porter also served high-quality steaks which became known as porterhouse steaks.

Insured Savings May Be Used to Supplement
Retirement Funds with a SAY-PAY* Account at K.S.B.

*Savings Payment

For example: If you are now 35 and save $25 a month, when you reach 65 years of age you could begin receiving $218.72 each month for the next 10 years (computation based upon Kingston Savings Bank's latest interest-dividend rate of 5% a year, compounded quarterly). Let Kingston Savings Bank's personal savings plan counselors help you set up a "Say-Pay" Account tailored to YOUR specific needs.

5%

A year from date of deposit compounded quarterly on Passbook Savings. Latest Interest-Dividend Rate.

Cast as Dione

Readying her role as Dione in "The Dream Weaver" at Northwestern University is Felice L. Wilpan, of Kingston. Felice, a junior at the Evans-ton, Ill., campus, is the daugh-ter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wil-pan of 314 Main Street. She will be appearing in the American premiere production of "Weaver," a drama by Spanish playwright Antonio Buero Vallejo. The play will be staged by Northwestern University Theatre tonight during the university's 1968 Festival of the Arts, in an English transla-tion by William I. Oliver.

Girl on the Aisle

WMCA Radio's opening night theater reviews, written by the station's "Girl on the Aisle," Peggy Stockton, are now being carried by Middletown's WALL-AM-FM and Utica's WTLB. Mrs. Stockton's reviews, now in their second season over WMCA, are carried during the 11:30 p.m. news in the "Barry Gray Show" on the night of the opening. The new tie-ups locally give upstaters in our area an opportunity to know what's hap-pening on Broadway shortly after it's happened.

Insured Savings May Be Used to Supplement

Retirement Funds with a SAY-PAY* Account at K.S.B.

*Savings Payment

For example: If you are now 35 and save $25 a month, when you reach 65 years of age you could begin receiving $218.72 each month for the next 10 years (computation based upon Kingston Savings Bank's latest interest-dividend rate of 5% a year, compounded quarterly). Let Kingston Savings Bank's personal savings plan counselors help you set up a "Say-Pay" Account tailored to YOUR specific needs.

5%
A year from date of deposit compounded quarterly on Passbook Savings. Latest Interest-Dividend Rate.

Cast as Dione

Readying her role as Dione in "The Dream Weaver" at Northwestern University is Felice L. Wilpan, of Kingston. Felice, a junior at the Evanston, Ill., campus, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wilpan of 314 Main Street. She will be appearing in the American premiere production of "Weaver," a drama by Spanish playwright Antonio Buero Vallejo. The play will be staged by Northwestern University Theatre tonight during the university's 1968 Festival of the Arts, in an English translation by William I. Oliver.

Girl on the Aisle

WMCA Radio's opening night theater reviews, written by the station's "Girl on the Aisle," Peggy Stockton, are now being carried by Middletown's WALL-AM-FM and Utica's WTLB. Mrs. Stockton's reviews, now in their second season over WMCA, are carried during the 11:30 p.m. news in the "Barry Gray Show" on the night of the opening. The new tie-ups locally give upstaters in our area an opportunity to know what's happening on Broadway shortly after it's happened.

MOVIES

MADIGAN. Veteran detectives Dan Madigan (Richard Widmark) and his partner Bonaro (Harry Guardino) are given three days to bring in a murderer who has outsmarted them and escaped. And before this action-paced drama about a New York police man-hunt has run the route, it has also brought into focus the professional and personal problems of the Police Commissioner and members of his staff.

The dogged, hard detective routines become the framework within which subplots involving these problems are developed.

Widmark shows a new side in this one, playing a long-time detective who is human, sensitive and thoroughly in love with his wife, Inger Stevens. But he has troubles at home because that frivolous lady complains of his neglect.

At the same time, Police Commissioner Russell (Henry Fonda) veers between warmth and human aura to the relentless forcefulness called for by the nature of his job. He's worried at the moment by evidence that his chief assistant and closest friend is involved in graft, and by charges of police brutality brought by a prominent Negro clergyman. Inclined towards stern justice, he finds himself softening his approach because of his love affair with another man's wife.

Meanwhile the 72 hours of the manhunt (filmed in the actual New York City locales) slip away. Widmark and Guardino move from one contact to another, and tension on screen mounts as the pieces fit more and more into the puzzle.

So close to a documentary, it sometimes seems like one, this is a tough, realistic film that utilizes New York's Spanish Harlem and the environs to the hilt.

WHERE ANGELS GO — TROUBLE FOLLOWS! Mother Superior Rosalind Russell and impetuous, progressive young nun Stella Stevens have their differences on a cross-country bus trip while taking some of their convent school girls to a California youth rally. That's the gist of this movie, now playing at the Community here.

For Mother Superior Russell, there are two main problems: the adolescent charges for whom she is responsible and the high spirits of Sister George (Miss Stevens), who argues for involvement in contemporary causes. Because of Sister's enthusiasm for the interfaith rally way out west, and because she has the bishop on her side, Mother Superior goes along with the girls and four nuns on the trek across the country.

Followers of this type movie (and there have been more than a few) will guess that the journey has plenty of fun and games for the young passengers, but that it brings just one jolt after another for Mother Superior. And, naturally, it's all Sister George's fault. She's the spark-plug that invariably finds some means of scuttling discipline.

The outcome, too, follows all those previous precedents set by the Ingrid Bergmans and Bing Crosbys of the Catholic world of cinema. In the long run, of course, there comes an exchange of understanding between the wise, tolerant older woman and the maturing young nun.

Still, Russell and Stevens turn in smooth performances and there are cameo portraits, as well, by Arthur Godfrey as a bishop, Van Johnson as a progressive priest heading a boys' school, Milton Berle as a film director and Robert Taylor as a genial rancher.

CLOSELY WATCHED TRAINS. How about a film that's a little bit of everything: a tragic comedy, a peaceful war movie, a success story of a failure. The failure is a young railway apprentice attempting to achieve manhood (Vaclav Neckar) and his story is portrayed with earthy frankness and humor in this Czech cinema piece.

The railroad station in a rural Czech village is the main setting for the story which takes place during the Nazi occupation of World War II. Still, with the war raging on two fronts, the railroad man never gets his signals straight; is more worried about local private conflicts than German officials.

Through some of the cleverest flashbacks ever filmed, viewers learn why the hero has problems. His great-grandfather made a hobby of jeering laborers, got himself stoned to death for his efforts...his grandfather made a hobby of hypnotism, tried to stop a German tank with a whammy...his father is currently making a hobby of being a slothful man.

It all adds up to marvelous fare and it's playing at the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties through May 30. Unforgettable characterizations include a paunchy stationmaster, a raunchy dispatcher who uses the waiting room sofa for billing and cooing, a stiff-necked German official who lauds the nobility of war, a female railroad telegraphist who gets her derriere indelibly imprinted with a German occupation stamp.

Sometimes explosive, often tragic, mixing the real and the surreal, ribaldry and pathos, comedy and sadness, "Trains" is one movie that keeps on the track all the way. (T.G.)

'Studio' Opens

The art galleries of Woodstock (and they are numerous) are beginning to take down the shutters and unlock the doors which have been closed during the fall and winter.

One of the first to announce its opening is The Studio, undoubtedly one of the most charming in the art colony, and located at 12 Deming Street, Woodstock. Proprietors Stefan and Inge Lokos announced this week that The Studio will toss an opening party today, May 25, from 3 to 6 p.m. The public is invited to turn out for refreshments and a look at what the new art season offers in the way of exhibits.

'From Sheep to Shawl' Just One Of Many June Time Attractions

New York State is where it's happening when June starts busting out all over. The first month of summer in the Empire State emphasizes entertainment and attractions that range from colorful community celebrations to music and art festivals, and from antique shows to spectacular parades.

Summer music and art festivals swing across the state on an almost daily basis throughout June. One worth noting is the program at Chautauqua Institution. Long famous as a center of culture, recreation and religion, the Institution opens its 95th summer season June 27. More than 700 events are on the agenda, including opera, concerts, lectures, drama, summer schools, recitals and religious services.

June festivals appeal to a variety of interests and one that sounds like fun takes place in the Albany area when the Town of Colonie commemorates its founding, June 3-8, with a pageant, parade and coronation of a beauty queen. A carnival and contest take over Nunda during the community fun days from June 6-8.

Those who don't mind traveling to see a little color will probably enjoy the 175th anniversary celebration festival from June 8 to 15 at Sherburne; the music and ballet receiving top billing at the annual Caramoor Festival, June 16-17 at Katonah; and the Maid of the Mist Festival at Niagara Falls from June 20 to 23.

Historic old Cooperstown will feature seminars on American culture, June 30-July 13 and, nearer to home, Monticello will have its annual antique car show and parade on June 8 and 9.

Other events that appeal: a country fair at Old Westbury

Gardens, June 15; Mount Vernon's outdoor antiques show, June 7-9; Gorham's band pageant, June 8; a spinning, weaving demonstration titled "From Sheep to Shawl" at Van Cortlandt Manor, Croton-on-Hudson, June 8-9; and "Drums Along the Seneca" in Geneva, June 22.

New York State is where it's happening when June starts busting out all over. The first month of summer in the Empire State emphasizes entertainment and attractions that range from colorful community celebrations to music and art festivals, and from antique shows to spectacular parades.

Summer music and art festivals swing across the state on an almost daily basis throughout June. One worth noting is the program at Chautauqua Institution. Long famous as a center of culture, recreation and religion, the Institution opens its 95th summer season June 27. More than 700 events are on the agenda, including opera, concerts, lectures, drama, summer schools, recitals and religious services.

June festivals appeal to a variety of interests and one that sounds like fun takes place in the Albany area when the Town of Colonie commemorates its founding, June 3-8, with a pageant, parade and coronation of a beauty queen. A carnival and contest take over Nunda during the community fun days from June 6-8.

Those who don't mind traveling to see a little color will probably enjoy the 175th anniversary celebration festival from June 8 to 15 at Sherburne; the music and ballet receiving top billing at the annual Caramoor Festival, June 16-17 at Katonah; and the Maid of the Mist Festival at Niagara Falls from June 20 to 23.

Historic old Cooperstown will feature seminars on American culture, June 30-July 13 and, nearer to home, Monticello will have its annual antique car show and parade on June 8 and 9.

Other events that appeal: a country fair at Old Westbury

Gardens, June 15; Mount Vernon's outdoor antiques show, June 7-9; Gorham's band pageant, June 8; a spinning, weaving demonstration titled "From Sheep to Shawl" at Van Cortlandt Manor, Croton-on-Hudson, June 8-9; and "Drums Along the Seneca" in Geneva, June 22.

ral Czech village is the main setting for the story which takes place during the Nazi occupation of World War II. Still, with the war raging on two fronts, the railroad man never gets his signals straight; is more worried about local private conflicts than German officials.

Through some of the cleverest flashbacks ever filmed, viewers learn why the hero has problems. His great-grandfather made a hobby of jeering laborers, got himself stoned to death for his efforts...his grandfather made a hobby of hypnotism, tried to stop a German tank with a whammy...his father is currently making a hobby of being a slothful man.

It all adds up to marvelous fare and it's playing at the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties through May 30. Unforgettable characterizations include a paunchy stationmaster, a raunchy dispatcher who uses the waiting room sofa for billing and cooing, a stiff-necked German official who lauds the nobility of war, a female railroad telegraphist who gets her derriere indelibly imprinted with a German occupation stamp.

Sometimes explosive, often tragic, mixing the real and the surreal, ribaldry and pathos, comedy and sadness, "Trains" is one movie that keeps on the track all the way. (T.G.)

'Studio' Opens

The art galleries of Woodstock (and they are numerous) are beginning to take down the shutters and unlock the doors which have been closed during the fall and winter.

One of the first to announce its opening is The Studio, undoubtedly one of the most charming in the art colony, and located at 12 Deming Street, Woodstock. Proprietors Stefan and Inge Lokos announced this week that The Studio will toss an opening party today, May 25, from 3 to 6 p.m. The public is invited to turn out for refreshments and a look at what the new art season offers in the way of exhibits.

They'll Bring Smiles to Rondout

As audiences scan the programs at the production of Guys and Dolls, they may well smile at recollections of various members of the cast. For the past six years, many of the names listed offered entertaining moments through song, dance, or drama for the benefit of the Rondout Valley Teacher Association Scholarship Fund.

Dixon McGrath, director of six of the seven plays to date, will not only direct this 1968 production, but will play the part of a grandfather. It will be remembered that he played the grandfather in You Can't Take It With You, Og, the Leprechaun in Finian's Rainbow, and Sakini, the interpreter, in Teahouse of the August Moon.

Arnold Gottesman has been well known for the many leads he has enacted on the Rondout Valley stage. In Love Rides the Rails he was the villainous Simon Darkway, and in Finian's Rainbow he played the title role. Lil Abner saw him as Pappy Yokum and in South Pacific, he was the navy officer. This year, he has the comic male lead part of Nathan Detroit, sure to bring laughter to all who watch.

Sherry Smith, who had the lead in South Pacific as Nellie Forbush, will return to the stage in Guys and Dolls as the comic lead of Miss Adelaide, the one and only love of Nathan Detroit.

Peter Gasper has managed to limelight the uniform as the sergeant in Teahouse of the August Moon and as Lt. Cable in South Pacific of 1967. This year he portrays the lead role of the gambler, Sky Masterson.

Jeanne Frick, as Miss Sarah Brown, the sweetheart of the Salvation Army, will make her first appearance this year with the Rondout Valley Teacher Association players. In previous productions she was responsible for the fine art work done as scenery in various plays.

Dozens of other local personalities are in the cast and audiences will recognize their faces on the RV stage. All seats are reserved and tickets are available daily from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2:30 - 3 p.m. on May 27 and 28 and from June 3 to 7.

East-West Soul Music

No Flying--Just Gliding

Say the assemblage is composed of six brilliant musicians and 14 strangely assorted instruments? Suppose, just for good measure, a rug is added and a mindless state tossed in and mixed lightly? What does it all add up to? An excellent way to shake up an audience.

The result from all this will be pretty much the evening planned by Performing Arts of Woodstock for Memorial Day Weekend.

The musicians—Teiji, Collin,

Romer, Johnny, Tom and Jordan—play such varied instruments as the pakiwaj (a South Indian classical drum), tabla, tamboura, gongs, bells, cello, soprano sax reed and metal flutes, guitar and sinai.

Sitting on their rug (a relative of somebody's flying carpet), and dropping off into a mindless state, the Raga-Muffins are accustomed to having the audience dance, they say, "if people feel like it."

"Music can cure the soul," says Romer. "For us, this music is like giving up flying and taking up gliding."

You, too, can glide along with the Raga-Muffins. Lift-off time is at 9 p.m. on both May 31 and June 1—and the flight fee is nominal for adults, half of nominal for students, and free if you can't swing the admission nobow.

The festivities will be taking place at PAW's Little Theater on Tinker Street in Woodstock. Like the man says, just follow your ears.

October, attendants in 19th-century costumes are present to answer questions about the Mystic Seaport presentations. This staff of interpreters is supplemented by a corps of volunteers, who perform a variety of similar functions to help accommodate the thousands of people who choose to visit Mystic Seaport.

Both the volunteer program and activation continue on a limited scale during the winter, for Mystic Seaport remains open for visitors the year round—foul weather is no obstacle to those who have the sea at heart. Although fall and early spring are popular for Special Interest Tours by groups of school children, scout troops, and other organizations of young people, arrangements for them are encouraged year-round. Science classes profit by trips to the Planetarium in any weather; and a series of special lectures sponsored by the Education Department offer adults opportunities for armchair traveling on cold winter evenings.

Tourists converge on Mystic by both car and boat. Eating facilities abound and they all have colorful names and excellent food. If you're all dressed up and still have last week's pay check left to burn, you'll probably want to dine at the Seamen's Inn with its distinctive Whaler and Tap Rooms. If you're in slacks or shorts, try the informality of the Sailors' Room or the cafeteria. Snack-timers will find all they can eat at the Pantry or the Clam Shack...and picnic-prone visitors can look forward to an area set aside for them.

TEMPO vouches for the Seaport as a place that caters to all tastes and pocketbooks. Take the kids down any day except Thanksgiving and Christmas and you'll find yourself wanting to stay a week.

THAT'S ARNOLD GOTTESMAN, Rondout Valley Guidance coordinator who's essaying the role of that colorful but penniless gambling czar Nathan Detroit, and Miss Sherry Smith, RV Art teacher, who's cast as Miss Adelaide, Nathan's chorine girl friend. Rehearsal shot is from "Guys and Dolls," the musical being given this year by the Rondout Valley Teachers Association.

Dance Theatre

Jazz and Dutchman

Seven choreographers will be represented in "Dance Theatre Two 1968" at Bard College Theatre of Drama and Dance. The production will open May 25, and run through Tuesday evening May 28.

Chase Robinson, of the Bard dance faculty, will stage "Aubade" by choreographer Lucas Hoving. Robinson, who teaches Bard's ballet classes, is a member of the Hoving Company, and will appear in the forthcoming season of the Martha Graham Company on Broadway.

A second faculty work in "Dance Theatre Two" will be "Jazz Opus 1968" choreographed by Ana Itelman, chairman of the dance faculty, with music by John Coltrane.

Also included in the production are works by five student choreographers. Hattie Heiman is choreographer of "The Dutchman," after the play by LeRoi Jones. The piece uses live music provided by student Donald Fagen's quartet.

Marion Tarr has choreographed "Stream," a dance work with music written by Bard student Andrew Frank, and played on stage during the production by Rebecca Warrick, flutist.

Other student choreographers are Gail Grisetti, whose "In-space" is set to music by William Russell; Eva Gholson, who has choreographed "Brisa" with music by J.S. Bach and "Banoyi" with music by Miriam Makeba, and Anita Schneer, who has choreographed "Three Faces" with music by Jusef Lateef.

STRAIGHT OUT OF A RECIPE BOOK is this painting now on exhibit at Ulster County Community College. The gourmet collection of foodstuffs is one of many drawings, paintings, designs and prints in the fifth annual exhibition of art work by students of the college. The show, sponsored by the Visual Arts Program on campus, will run through Sunday, June 16, in both the Gallery Hall, John Burroughs Science Building, and Library Hall, MacDonald DeWitt Library, Stone Ridge. The exhibit is open to public exhibition and may be viewed Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Work shown is by students in the art classes of Professor Ruth Muroff, Visual Arts coordinator, and Allan Cohen, college instructor of Arts. The exhibit excels as a showcase for experimental expression; highlights the growth of visual arts on the local campus where twice as much exhibition space is now needed as in years past.

When Perrine's Was a Youngster

Local historian (and only incidentally, a fine folk singer) Harry Siemsen called TEMPO the other day to add an interesting footnote to the story this magazine carried recently on Perrine's Bridge. Poring over old newspapers in the Kingston Library, Siemsen and his sister came across this item on Page 1 in the Feb. 4, 1896 issue of The Kingston Journal and Weekly Freeman.

Simon to Judge

Harry Simon, director of music in the Ontario Central Schools, has been selected as a judge for the New York State Music Competition to be held this spring. Simon was chosen to be an adjudicator by officials of the New York State School Music Association.

Since 1958, and for the past ten consecutive years, the Ontario High School Band has been awarded each year the highest rating possible in New York State.

Simon's first assignment will be at the music competition to be held at Port Chester, N. Y.

Latin American Bands

Polito Vega, host and star of TV's Club De La Juventud is presenting big name Latin American dance bands and top Latin American entertainers at the Casino at Palisades Amusement Park, every Tuesday and Friday evening at 8:30 p.m.

Admission to these shows featuring the tops in Latin American dance bands and singing stars for entertainment and dancing is free, but seats will be available on a first come, first served basis.

Mystical

Spiritual, mystical or what have you the collection is well worth reading for the sheer joy of the written word which the author manipulates in kaleidoscope imagery. Never does she preach from a pulpit of words. Rather she creates a storyteller's framework leaving the reader to find his own message of faith, hope or what have you. Mostly it is a warm glow of good writing combined with an inner solace seldom experienced in this hurried age.

The True Seekers

The longest story in the book is The Secret Flower, which was published in 1960 as a paperback. The quest is for the secret flower which just has to be the same seeking as King Arthur's Knights devoted themselves to in an earlier age. Not the Holy Grail this time but The Secret Flower, and in the story a groping medieval businessman sets out for the prize sought by "true seekers" through the ages.

Mrs. Clemente is a "true seeker" in her own right. It was seeking which led to her association with the Society of Brothers in 1954. She was born in 1917, grew up in New York City and attended Horace Mann School. From there she graduated from Smith College in 1939 and taught English at German-town Friends School and at the Shippen School in Lancaster, Pa.

In 1941 she married Robert Clement, Philadelphia attorney, and settled down as wife and mother in Haddonfield, N.J. As members of contemporary American society the Clements were seeking a life that would express a "radical Christianity, in which all their time, possessions and energy would be given to a life of brotherhood." It was then they joined the Woodcrest community at Rifton.

Another story by Mrs. Clement, The Three Gifts, is included in the anthology of 15 Christmas stories issued by the Society through the Plough Publishing House last year.

The Sparrow and Other Stories is available at the Book Center in the Ulster Shopping Plaza and at O'Reilly's Stationery Store, 38 John Street, Kingston.

A TURNABOUT

Ulster County's Bridges, Old Wooden Structures. A Hamlet seldom mentioned.

"Ulster County, it is safe to say, has within its borders, as many if not a larger number of bridges than any other County in the State. Nearly all of them are wooden structures. Among the most substantial is the one spanning the Wallkill Creek near Dasherville, known as Perrines Bridge.

"This structure was built in 1844 and is yet one of the best spanning that stream. Near the bridge is the little hamlet known as Perrines Bridge, which was named after Perrine, who kept a hotel there early in the present century. There was a post-office there from 1858-1860."

Interesting that an editor in 1886 seemed to feel the bridge was aging but durable when it was only 42-years-old. Ironical that the venerable old span has now celebrated its 124th birthday, is one of the few remaining of the large number once covering the County, and is still fighting the battle of red tape for preservation.

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic has been making music for all its fans. Now some of them will make music for the orchestra.

Piano and organ pupils of Mrs. Jane Tonnesen will give their recital this year to benefit the Maintenance Fund of the Philharmonic. On Saturday, June 8 at 7 p.m. in the Saugerties High School Auditorium these young people will be contributing their time and talent and sharing the world of music they have come to know and love.

In the past, all recitals have been given for the families and friends of the students without charge. This year, Mrs. Tonnesen, a member of the Board of Directors of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society, is having the recital so that everyone may enjoy the young people's performance and also benefit the orchestra that has become an integral cultural part of the Hudson Valley.

All Afternoon: Uileann Pipers

A program of 18th century choral and instrumental music will be presented all afternoon on May 26 at the New Windsor Cantonment, on historic Temple Hill, Vails Gate, N.Y. This "living" museum, partial restoration of Washington's final winter camp (1782-1783) during the American Revolution, is in its fourth season.

A group of four pipers led by Thomas Standeven, of Philadelphia, Pa., will feature uileann pipes, a very ancient Irish instrument beloved by many of the numerous Irish troops in the Continental army during the Revolution.

Standeven, Irish born, is a researcher and teacher of ancient music and is active in Irish cultural societies. He and his musicians will also demonstrate in the Temple the flute and fiddle music that was played during the Revolution.

Walter Latzko, director of The Classic Choral Society of Blooming Grove, N.Y., will lead a mixed group of 35 singers in the choral part of the program. The music to be heard will be the same type as was heard in and around the original Temple for religious ceremonies, balls and the soldiers' own amusement.

In 1941 she married Robert Clement, Philadelphia attorney, and settled down as wife and mother in Haddonfield, N.J. As members of contemporary American society the Clements were seeking a life that would express a "radical Christianity, in which all their time, possessions and energy would be given to a life of brotherhood." It was then they joined the Woodcrest community at Rifton.

Another story by Mrs. Clement, The Three Gifts, is included in the anthology of 15 Christmas stories issued by the Society through the Plough Publishing House last year.

The Sparrow and Other Stories is available at the Book Center in the Ulster Shopping Plaza and at O'Reilly's Stationery Store, 38 John Street, Kingston.

A TURNABOUT

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic has been making music for all its fans. Now some of them will make music for the orchestra.

Piano and organ pupils of Mrs. Jane Tonnesen will give their recital this year to benefit the Maintenance Fund of the Philharmonic. On Saturday, June 8 at 7 p.m. in the Saugerties High School Auditorium these young people will be contributing their time and talent and sharing the world of music they have come to know and love.

In the past, all recitals have been given for the families and friends of the students without charge. This year, Mrs. Tonnesen, a member of the Board of Directors of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society, is having the recital so that everyone may enjoy the young people's performance and also benefit the orchestra that has become an integral cultural part of the Hudson Valley.

All Afternoon: Uileann Pipers

A program of 18th century choral and instrumental music will be presented all afternoon on May 26 at the New Windsor Cantonment, on historic Temple Hill, Vails Gate, N.Y. This "living" museum, partial restoration of Washington's final winter camp (1782-1783) during the American Revolution, is in its fourth season.

A group of four pipers led by Thomas Standeven, of Philadelphia, Pa., will feature uileann pipes, a very ancient Irish instrument beloved by many of the numerous Irish troops in the Continental army during the Revolution.

Standeven, Irish born, is a researcher and teacher of ancient music and is active in Irish cultural societies. He and his musicians will also demonstrate in the Temple the flute and fiddle music that was played during the Revolution.

Walter Latzko, director of The Classic Choral Society of Blooming Grove, N.Y., will lead a mixed group of 35 singers in the choral part of the program. The music to be heard will be the same type as was heard in and around the original Temple for religious ceremonies, balls and the soldiers' own amusement.

Cuts Down Her Homework

"The kids had their troubles, I had mine. We used the same words, though, 'Too much homework.' But unlike them, I wasn't getting any vacations to speak of. Then luck came my way; the dirty old furnace gave up.

"And when we got through hunting for a replacement, we not only found a whole new era has dawned for home heating, but better yet, we're in on it. With a complete electric heating system that all but runs itself," reports a suburban housewife.

And what's so new about it? An electric contractor, who electrified both his house and his year-round-vacation cottage seven and six years ago respectively, says:

"Electricity is the only really new development in home heating. Until now, everything else was fossil fuel of one sort or another. But more important than what it is, is what it does. Electric heating is clean, no added smudge. However, my wife always says it's the easy operation that sold her in the first place. Says she was tired of fighting our old heating equipment. And even tired of trying to nag me into getting it done.

"Because there always was plenty of 'homework,' before we went in for modern electric living. For example, there was the re-ordering matter; and the storage. And that was only the beginning. We used to have the repairman around for servicing pretty often. And now — though I could do this myself since it's my specialty — our house has been as good as an advertisement. Nothing's ever gone wrong. And of course chances are, it won't. Electric heating is now widely known as the longest-lasting, the most efficient, and of course the most comfortable."

And P.S. it's also a wise way to spend, or rather invest money. All that comfort while you're in the house. And the likelihood of a higher profit when-or-if you want to sell.

QUESTION BOX

Question: How can I make a choice among the styles of electric heating unit? Where do I get the background information that will help me make a good decision?

Answer: It's not that big a problem, really. Just talk it over with your contractor.

It's mostly a matter of selecting the equipment type (or maybe a combination of types) most suitable to the construction and architectural vagaries of your house.

Question: Does electric heating limit the number of appliances you can have, and do they operate on reduced power when the heat is on?

Answer: Goodness, no, Quite the opposite. You're probably thinking of the way a TV screen might shrink in a house with inadequate wiring.

But basic to the installation of an electric heating system is revising the wiring up to what is sometimes termed "heavy house power."

If the house is brought up to what is known as Gold Medallion standards, by the way, certain major appliances are mandatory, and a certain other number must be added from a list of optionals.

In fact the Gold Medallion slogan is "Total Electric Living." And with an eye to the future at that . . . because extra circuits are provided to take care of whatever electrical may come along in the years ahead. No re-wiring will be necessary, and all electrical equipment will have its full measure of fuel.

Question: Where should a thermostat be placed?

Answer: With electric heating, first off, it's possible to have thermostats in every room if you wish and to vary temperatures from room to room. As to placement within the room, let the electrical contractor determine. Obviously you don't set one in direct sunlight, or in the path of a door that opens to the outdoors.
